The Department of Justice responds to Chairman Waxman's inquiry about political briefings the White House gave to executive agency officials. DOJ has identified 11 White House briefings provided to Department of Justice officials by the Office of Political Affairs, most of which included political updates. Documents and Links

- Department of Justice Response