Subcommittee Chairman Kucinich held a hearing on Section 1221 of the Energy Policy Act of 2005. This provision could preempt state and local decision makers with regard to the siting of high-voltage electric transmission lines. It would also give energy companies the power of federal eminent domain in order to construct power lines over the objections of private land owners.

Video of the hearing:

Documents and Links

- Testimony of Christopher Miller
- Testimony of Hon. Bill DeWeese
- Testimony of Kurt Adams
- Testimony of Paul D. Koonce
- Testimony of Kevin Kolevar
- Testimony of Elizabeth Merritt
- Testimony of Hon. Paul Tonko