The Honorable Thomas J. Curry
Comptroller of the Currency
Office of the Comptroller of the Currency
400 7th Street, SW
Washington, DC 20219

Dear Mr. Curry:

The Committee on Oversight and Government Reform continues its oversight of a multiple federal agency initiative forcing banks to terminate the accounts of legal businesses disfavored by the Administration.<sup>1</sup> Within the Department of Justice this initiative is known as “Operation Choke Point.”<sup>2</sup> Documents produced to the Committee suggest substantial involvement by federal banking regulators, and we write to request your assistance with this oversight.

The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency is the primary supervisor and regulator of all national banks and federal savings associations. In the course of its investigation of Operation Choke Point, the Committee has learned that federal regulators are pressuring banks to terminate relationships with legal yet disfavored industries, without regard to the legitimacy or risk profile of individual companies. For example, one letter from a Regional Director of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation effectively ordered a target bank to terminate all relationships with payday lenders:

The FDIC continually assesses the risk and appropriateness of the business lines and activities of our supervised institutions. We have recently become aware of [Bank’s] involvement in activities related to payday lending, specifically, the processing of transactions on behalf of [Payday Lender]. As a result, the FDIC and [State Banking regulator] conducted a joint Compliance and Risk Management visitation of your bank as of [date].

The focus of our visitation was on the risk associated with this relationship, compliance with consumer protection laws and regulations, and the effectiveness of Board and senior management due diligence and oversight of this relationship and the corresponding payday lending-related activities. It is our view that payday loans are costly, and offer limited utility for consumers, as compared to traditional loan products. Furthermore, the relationship carries a high degree of risk to the institution, including third-party, reputational, compliance, and legal risk, which may expose the bank to individual and class actions by borrowers and local regulatory authorities. Consequently, we have generally found that activities related to payday lending are unacceptable for an insured depository institution.<sup>3</sup>

There is evidence that OCC may be operating in a similar manner. Over the past year, OCC-regulated banks have terminated the accounts of countless businesses in legal yet disfavored industries. The Committee has reviewed a substantial number of account termination letters. Often, the letters explicitly attributed the terminations to new compliance standards or “current regulatory trends,” while expressly disclaiming any negative assessment of the account holder’s financial risk.<sup>4</sup> OCC’s enforcement of a compliance regime that forces banks to sever all relations with legal and legitimate customers is totally unacceptable.

So that the Committee may better understand OCC’s supervisory and regulatory policies with respect to legal and legitimate bank customers, we request that you provide the following information:

1. All documents and communications from January 1, 2012, to the present between employees of OCC and employees of the Civil Division of the Department of Justice.
2. All documents and communications from January 1, 2012, to the present referring or relating to Operation Choke Point.
3. All documents and communications from January 1, 2012, to the present referring or relating to firearms and ammunitions businesses and any financial institution’s relationship with firearms or ammunition businesses.
4. All documents and communications from January 1, 2012, to the present referring or relating to short-term lending and any financial institution’s relationship with short-term lenders.
5. All documents and communications from January 1, 2012, to the present referring or relating to money services businesses and any financial institution’s relationship with money services businesses.

You should also produce documents that you have a legal right to obtain, that you have a right to copy or to which you have access, as well as documents that you have placed in the temporary possession, custody, or control of any third party. Requested records, documents, data or information should not be destroyed, modified, removed, transferred or otherwise made inaccessible to the Committee.
2. In the event that any entity, organization or individual denoted in this request has been, or is also known by any other name than that herein denoted, the request shall be read also to include that alternative identification.

8. When you produce documents, you should identify the paragraph in the Committee's schedule to which the documents respond.
9. It shall not be a basis for refusal to produce documents that any other person or entity also possesses non-identical or identical copies of the same documents.
10. If any of the requested information is only reasonably available in machine-readable form (such as on a computer server, hard drive, or computer backup tape), you should consult with the Committee staff to determine the appropriate format in which to produce the information.
11. If compliance with the request cannot be made in full by the specified return date, compliance shall be made to the extent possible by that date. An explanation of why full compliance is not possible shall be provided along with any partial production.

19. Upon completion of the document production, you should submit a written certification, signed by you or your counsel, stating that: (1) a diligent search has been completed of all documents in your possession, custody, or control which reasonably could contain responsive documents; and (2) all documents located during the search that are responsive have been produced to the Committee.
