The ones complaining do not even live here in Ford Co or some in Kansas. Johnny Dunlap started it all.

People just need to get over themselves, they can drive to anything else they want to or they have someone take them, why is this different. I understand the 1 polling place as the general elections are getting large and especially when there are things to vote on.
This is just temporary. I think to two polling places next time is a good idea.

It is the City that is offering it to the Expo. It has been a big mess. Not because of the Expo center but just one location. That is why ACLU has their panties in a bunch.

Yes, I do! 😊😊I saw on facebook that the Expo is offering transportation for voting!! Good deal. We'll probably vote early in office though😊

I think once they have it build it will be ok. The parking will be a ways to walk but by 2020 I will use both the expo and the civic center I think. Just to break up the crowd.

Well, it could be dangerous as well with equipment and debris. I knew that holding elections there would end at some time after the school ended up owning it.

Dave wants to know what time the bus will come and pick us up 😊.

I know I am doing this for you guys. LOL I knew they were going to start just did not know when. I pushed him to let me know. So I am moving it. If it was not going to be a big election I would not worry about it but I think the parking will be a major issue this time.

We saw that sign today when we came home from church. Why did Hammond wait until now to let you know? I don't remember that being part of the bond issue? But none of that matters. You've got a parking issue. The Expo is probably the best solution but you're right you'll catch flack, except from us who live out south. My husband will say he's always had to drive "up north" so now it's time to come south.

Just need to know I am making the right call. I know either way I will have complaints. The attached is what the civic center will look like when they start building. I have decided to move the 2018 Gen. Election to the Western State Bank Expo Center. I just think the parking will be a big problem at the civic center. I drove around on the south side and the back side there is no parking on the back because of the containers for building and the busses. Not that much parking on the south side. What do you think? I have to set my date by the end of this month. I know I will be dammed if I do and dammed if I don't.

Bill – Attached is the plan showing the location for the fencing around the laydown area at the Administration building. Our hope is to begin work on site in October, but this is dependent upon the date when plans can be completed. With the fencing up, the Civic Center will have approximately 450 parking stalls remaining for events. We will not be doing work on the interior of the existing building until December.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thank you,
