The Honorable Tom Wheeler
Chairman
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th St S.W.
Washington, DC 20554

Dear Chairman Wheeler:

Recent media reports raise concerns about the rulemaking process used by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) and the independence of the agency.¹ In particular, reports indicate that views expressed by the White House potentially had an improper influence on the development of the draft Open Internet Order circulated internally at the Commission on February 5, 2015. Specifically, there are questions regarding the FCC's decision to promote the reclassification of broadband services under Title II of the Communications Act of 1934.

I am interested in hearing from the FCC on this matter, in particular how the FCC communicated with the White House and other Executive Branch agencies. To ensure the integrity of the Committee's investigation, please preserve all documents that can reasonably be anticipated to be subject to a request for production from the Committee. Specifically, please preserve the following categories of documents:

1. All documents in the possession of FCC personnel working in the Office of Chairman Wheeler and the Office of General Counsel;
2. All documents in the possession of the Chiefs of the Wireline Competition Bureau, the Wireless Telecommunications Bureau, the Consumer and Governmental Affairs Bureau, and the Office of Strategic Planning and Policy Analysis; and
3. All documents from all other personnel at the FCC who have, at any time from January 14, 2014, through the present, worked on net neutrality, the open internet proceeding, the classification of broadband, or the regulation of broadband internet access service.

So the Committee can better understand the circumstances surrounding the White House's influence, if any, on the FCC rulemaking process please provide the following documents:

1. All communications between and among FCC personnel and the White House, the National Economic Council, the Office of Management and Budget, and the National Telecommunications and Information

Administration relating to net neutrality, the open internet proceeding, the classification of broadband, or the regulation of broadband internet access service between January 14, 2014, and the present.

2. All calendar appointments, visitor logs, or meeting minutes referring or relating to any and all meetings between and among FCC personnel and the White House, the National Economic Council, the Office of Management and Budget, the National Telecommunications and Information Administration, or other members of the Executive Branch that relates in any way to net neutrality, the open internet proceeding, the classification of broadband, or the regulation of broadband internet access service between January 14, 2014, and the present.
3. Any and all internal FCC documents discussing, referring, or relating to the views, preferences, recommendations, or advice of the personnel working at the White House, the National Economic Council, the Office of Management and Budget, and the National Telecommunications and Information Administration or other Executive Branch agencies on net neutrality, the open internet proceeding, the classification of broadband, or the regulation of broadband internet access service between January 14, 2014, and the present.
4. All documents and communications relating to the recommendations, or views of FCC personnel about net neutrality, the open internet proceeding, the classification of broadband, or the regulation of broadband internet access service. Please include in this response all draft or final versions of orders, memoranda, or written views concerning the approach the FCC should take with respect to net neutrality, the open internet proceeding, the classification of broadband, or the regulation of broadband internet access service between January 14, 2014, and the present.

Please make knowledgeable staff available for a briefing and provide all documents on this matter no later than February 20, 2015. An attachment to this letter provides additional information about responding to the Committee's request. When producing documents to the Committee, please deliver production sets to the Majority Staff in Room 2157 of the Rayburn House Office Building and the Minority Staff in Room 2471 of the Rayburn House Office Building.

The Committee on Oversight and Government Reform is the principal investigative committee in the U.S. House of Representatives. Pursuant to House Rule X, the Committee has authority to investigate "any matter" at "any time." Thank you for your cooperation in this matter. If you have any questions regarding this request please contact Troy D. Stock of the Committee staff at (202) 225-5074.
