The Honorable Trey Gowdy
Chairman
Committee on Oversight

U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Chairman Gowdy:

Thank you for your December 8, 2017 letter. Secretary Nielsen asked that I reply on her behalf.

The letter requested a list of guidance documents issued by the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) since January 1, 2008. Following consultation with the Department's Components, we are enclosing a list of the main types of public-facing guidance documents issued by DHS. DHS Components, including its main regulatory Components – the Federal Emergency Management Agency, National Protection and Programs Directorate, Transportation Security Administration, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services, U.S. Coast Guard, U.S. Customs and Border Protection, and U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement – issue a range of guidance documents to support their missions and inform the public.

The enclosed list provides the descriptive information that you requested, including the title, form, issuing Component, Federal Register citation or a hyperlink to a copy of the document (where applicable), and the significance designation by the Office of Management and Budget under Executive Order 12866. Additional guidance and materials can be found on the publicly-available DHS and Component websites and in the Federal Register.

In addition, at the direction of the Department's Regulatory Reform Task Force, DHS has reviewed, and will continue to review, guidance documents to identify opportunities for regulatory reform and cost savings. Also, as you may be aware, the Government Accountability Office (GAO) maintains a website that tracks agency submissions to GAO under the Congressional Review Act. See https://www.gao.gov/legal/congressional-review-act/overview.

Thank you again for your letter. The co-signers of your letter will receive separate, identical responses. Should you wish to discuss this matter further, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Respectfully,

Benjamin L. Cassidy

Dear Mr. Chairman:

This response replies to your December 8, 2017 letter to the Secretary of Defense requesting a list of guidance documents and information about such documents issued by the Department of Defense since January 1, 2008.

The Department of Defense has issued five guidance documents since January 1, 2008 that are published in the Federal Register. Two of these documents adopt and supplement the Council on Environmental Quality regulations that implement the National Environmental Policy Act. One document provides guidance to federal financial assistance recipients regarding the prohibition against national origin discrimination affecting limited English proficient persons under Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Two others provide interpretations regarding compliance with the Department's Military Lending Act regulation. Additional information about these guidance documents, as well as a copy of each of the documents is enclosed.

My point of contact for this matter is Ms. Patricia Toppings, Chief, Regulatory and Advisory Committee Division, Directorate for Oversight and Compliance, Office of the Deputy Chief Management Officer. Ms. Toppings may be contacted at [redacted], or by e-mail at [redacted].

maintenance and sustainment, manufacture of test articles (prototypes), test and evaluation, fielding of missile defense systems and components, and the ultimate decommissioning and disposal or transfer of BMDS components and assets at many DoD installations, other agency sites, and industrial sites around the globe. Additionally, MDA has carefully considered over 200 records of environmental consideration (RECs)/ records of categorical exclusion/Air Force Form 813s documenting the use of the respective military Service's Categorical Exclusions (CATEXs) for minor actions occurring on host installations or ranges.

As a DoD agency, the MDA does not own real property. Because most MDA actions typically occur on host military service installations or ranges, or other Federal agency properties, MDA has historically relied upon our host installation or Federal agency's NEPA implementation, including their implementing procedures and CATEXs, to address the environmental impacts of MDA actions.

With the issuance of CEQ guidance "Establishing, Applying, and Revising Categorical Exclusions under the National Environmental Policy Act" (2010) and after consulting informally with the CEQ, MDA determined the need to establish NEPA implementing procedures and CATEXs specific to MDA projects and actions. The information that MDA assembled while developing our CATEXs is described in the "Administrative Record for Missile Defense Agency Proposed Categorical Exclusions" and is available on the MDA Web site at: http://www.mda.mil//news/environmental_reports.html.

MDA's CATEXs describe the categories of actions that the Agency determined will not normally have a potential significant effect, individually or cumulatively on the human environment; and together with these implementing procedures will guide MDA organizations in carrying out the procedural requirements of NEPA.

The National Environmental Policy Act Procedures for the Missile Defense Agency

1. Purpose

These procedures implement the provisions of the NEPA, 42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq. They adopt and supplement the CEQ regulations implementing NEPA, 40 CFR parts 1500–1508, by establishing policy, directing environmental planning, and assigning responsibilities in the MDA to prepare, review, and approve environmental documents that comply with NEPA.

2. Scope

The policies and responsibilities in these procedures apply to activities conducted by MDA and its executing agents in the United States, its possessions, and territories. The potential environmental effects of MDA proposed activities in foreign countries and global commons will be considered in accordance with Executive Order 12114, "Environmental Effects Abroad of Major Federal Activities," DoD directives, host nation final governing standards, overseas environmental baseline guidance documents, status of forces agreements, and other international agreements.

3. Policy

(a) It is MDA policy regarding NEPA, consistent with our mission and regulations and the environmental laws and regulations of the United States, to: (1) Start the NEPA process at the earliest possible time as an effective decision-making tool while evaluating a proposed action; (2) develop and carefully consider a range of reasonable alternatives to achieve the proposed actions; (3) write environmental analyses in plain English; and (4) to the maximum extent practical: (i) Include pollution prevention alternatives, (ii) consider sustainable transportation, greenhouse gas emissions, and energy choices, and (iii) ensure that, consistent with other national policies and national security requirements, we use practical means and measures to protect, restore, and enhance the quality of the environment and mitigate adverse consequences. MDA lacks projects or programs where actions are planned by private applicants or other non-Federal entities. Therefore, these procedures do not include the provision (as specified at 40 CFR § 1501.2(d)) to account for actions planned by private applicants or other non-Federal entities.

(b) MDA will promote efficiency in its NEPA process through: (1) Being aware and involved with the MDA project advocate (or MDA proponent) in the NEPA process; (2) using programmatic analyses and "tiering," where appropriate, to make sure that decisions are made at the right levels, eliminating repetitive discussion, considering cumulative effects, and focusing on issues that are important and appropriate for discussion at each level; (3) using scoping and public involvement processes to ensure the analysis of issues of interest to the public and/or important to decision making; (4) eliminating needless paperwork by focusing documents on the major environmental issues affecting those decisions, including the use of adoption or incorporation by reference of previous, relevant NEPA analyses prepared by other agencies; (5) early integration of the NEPA process into all aspects of MDA planning to prevent disruption in decision making; (6) partnering or coordinating with agencies, organizations, and individuals whose specialized expertise improves the NEPA process; (7) clear and concise communication of data, documentation, and information; and (8) execution of the NEPA compliance process within the framework of the MDA's Environmental Management System.

(c) MDA will periodically (at least every seven years) review the effectiveness of its NEPA program and these implementing procedures, the appropriateness and usefulness of our categorical exclusions (CATEXs), the accuracy of predicted findings of no significant impact, the effectiveness of mitigation, the ramifications of actions both individually and cumulatively, and public comments as well as any comments made by Federal, State, local, and tribal agencies. Requirements for the EIS are addressed later in these procedures.

7. CATEX

(a) If the proposed action qualifies as a CATEX and the screening criteria are met, the action can proceed. Appendix B lists MDA's CATEXs. Appendix C shows an MDA REC form to be used to document designated CATEXs.

(b) MDA may use a CATEX only when the following screening criteria are met: (1) The proposed action is a Federal action over which we have primary responsibility and, as described in its entirety, is covered by one or more CATEXs listed in Appendix B; (2) the proposed action does not involve any of the extraordinary circumstances described in paragraph (d) below; and (3) the proposed action does not involve using unproven technology that could potentially result in unknown impacts.

(c) Applying a CATEX to an action does not eliminate the need to meet other statutory or regulatory requirements including general conformity, federally-listed threatened or endangered species or their designated critical habitat, historic and cultural preservation, and safe drinking water requirements or other applicable Federal, state, or local regulatory requirements.

(d) "Extraordinary circumstances" arise when a typically categorically-excluded action has the reasonable likelihood to result in individually or cumulatively significant impacts on public health, safety, or the environment, based on the specific situation where the CATEX is applied. Extraordinary circumstances that preclude using a CATEX include: (1) A reasonable likelihood the proposed action would result in uncertain, unique, or unknown environmental risks, or is scientifically controversial; (2) a reasonable likelihood the proposed action would establish precedents or commit MDA to future actions with potential for significant impacts; (3) a reasonable likelihood the proposed action would threaten to violate Federal, state, or local environmental laws; (4) a reasonable likelihood the proposed action would adversely affect environmentally sensitive resources, such as, but not limited to, Federally-listed threatened and endangered species, their designated critical habitat, wilderness areas, floodplains, wetlands, aquifer recharge areas, coastal zones, wild and scenic rivers, and significant fish or wildlife habitat, unless the impact was permitted, mitigated, or addressed through another environmental review process, for example, the Clean Water Act or Coastal Zone Management Act; (5) a reasonable likelihood the proposed action would adversely affect known national natural landmarks, or cultural or historic resources, including, but not limited to, property listed on or eligible for the National Register of Historic Places, unless the impact was permitted, mitigated, or addressed through another environmental review process, such as the National Historic Preservation Act; or (6) a reasonable likelihood of causing an increase in surface transportation congestion that would exceed capacity of the supporting infrastructure or otherwise cause significant impacts to the human environment.

(e) MDA will review its CATEXs at least every seven years to determine whether modifications, additions, or deletions are appropriate, based on our experience and determination that environmental impacts of certain activities are not significant. If MDA acquires new responsibilities through legislation or administrative restructuring, we may propose new or modified CATEXs after gaining sufficient experience with the new activities to make a reasoned determination that any resulting environmental impacts are not significant. MDA will submit recommendations for modifications, additions, or deletions to CEQ for informal consultation and discussion.

8. Environmental Assessment (EA)

(a) An EA is a concise public document agencies/services prepare to inform decision makers and determine if the proposed action has the potential to significantly impact the environment (which then would require the preparation of an EIS). In cases when no potentially significant impact is expected, an agency/service documents this determination with a FONSI. An EA may be prepared at any time to help agencies/services plan and make decisions. Typical MDA actions normally requiring an EA include: (1) New construction of facilities that involves more than five cumulative acres of new surface disturbance; (2) proposed actions that potentially result in significant changes to established land use; or (3) actions substantially altering ongoing MDA operations which could potentially lead directly, indirectly, or cumulatively to substantial environmental impacts.

(b) An EA is prepared to assess the extent of potential environmental impacts resulting from a proposed action and alternatives, and to determine whether or not the impacts are likely to be significant. The EA must include, at a minimum, the following information and analyses: (1) Purpose and need for the proposed action or activity; (2) description of the proposed action; (3) brief discussion of the alternatives considered, including the "no action" alternative and the "proposed action;" (4) brief discussion of the affected environment and region of influence; (5) analysis of the potential environmental impacts of the proposed action and alternatives; (6) list of preparers, agencies and persons consulted; and (7) references.

(c) The analysis of potential environmental impacts (item (b)(5) above) includes an assessment of the direct, indirect, and cumulative impacts that can reasonably be expected from taking the proposed action or reasonable alternatives. When there are direct or indirect effects on an aspect of the environment from the proposed action, then MDA must also consider cumulative effects. Cumulative effects are impacts on the environment resulting from the incremental impact of the action when added to other past, present, and reasonably foreseeable future actions. Actions by Federal agencies, non-Federal agencies and private parties must be included when considering cumulative effects, as specified in 40 CFR 1508.7.

(d) The analysis for an EA leads to a determination to either issue a FONSI or a NOI to prepare an EIS.

(e) MDA should coordinate preparing the EA with other agencies (e.g., Federal, state, local, or tribal governments) when the action involves resources they manage or protect. MDA may invite agencies with jurisdiction by law and with special expertise, to participate as cooperating agencies (40 CFR 1501.6, 1508.5, 1508.15, and 1508.26). Factors for determining whether to invite, decline, or end cooperating agency status are in Attachment 1 of the CEQ Memorandum for Heads of Federal Agencies: Cooperating Agencies in Implementing the Procedural Requirements of the National Environmental Policy Act (January 30, 2002).

(f) MDA may request public involvement in preparing the EA or revising or supplementing the EA, or choose to involve the public after the EA is prepared. MDA may use scoping but, would not publish the notice in the FR unless the proposed action was of national interest. MDA will select the type and format for public involvement to best support on-time and meaningful public input and coordinate it with the electronically with the EPA (40 CFR 1506.9).

11. Record of Decision (ROD)

(a) After filing the FEIS with the EPA, a ROD will be prepared (as specified in 40 CFR 1505.2) unless MDA announces that we are withdrawing the proposed action.

(b) MDA will make the ROD available on the MDA public Web site. MDA will also make the ROD available to the public through the various methods outlined in 40 CFR 1506.6, as appropriate.

(c) An action for which an EIS was approved will not start until: (1) 30 days after the EPA-issued notice of availability (NOA) that the final EIS was published in the FR; or (2) 90 days after the DEIS NOA was published in the FR by the EPA, whichever provides the public with the most notice.

12. Memorandum for Record (MFR)

When MDA reviews actions covered in an existing EA or EIS that we prepared, we may write a memorandum for record (MFR) to document that review. When MDA is a cooperating agency in preparing an EIS, we may adopt the lead agency's EIS without recirculating the EIS as a draft or as a final EIS. MDA may do this when, after an independent review, we conclude and document in an MFR that the lead agency adequately addressed the adopting agency's comments and suggestions. Similarly, when MDA is a cooperating agency in preparing an EA, we may adopt the EA without recirculating the EA when, after an independent review, we conclude and document in an MFR that the lead agency adequately addressed the adopting agency's comments and suggestions (CEQ Guidance Memorandum for Heads of Federal Department and Agencies: Improving the Process for Preparing Efficient and Timely Environmental Reviews under the National Environmental Policy Act, March 6, 2012; 40 CFR 1506.3).

13. Administrative Record

MDA must maintain the administrative record for the environmental analysis performed. The administrative record must be retained by MDA for seven years after completing the action, unless the action involves controversy concerning environmental effects or is of a nature that warrants keeping it longer. The administrative record includes all supporting documents and information used to make the decision. This administrative record should include, but is not limited to: (1) Maps and or documents relevant to developing an EA or EIS; (2) formal communication by a consulting or coordinating agency office; (3) studies and inventories of affected environmental resources; (4) correspondence with regulatory agencies; (5) correspondence with and comments from, private citizens, tribes, local governments, and other individuals and agencies contacted during public involvement; and (6) confirmation of publications and transcripts of any public hearing. MDA will prepare and maintain an index or table of contents for the administrative record.

14. Mitigation and Monitoring

(a) MDA will indicate whether mitigation measures (as described in 40 CFR 1508.20) will be implemented for the alternative selected in either the FONSI or ROD, what commitments MDA considered and selected, and who will be responsible for implementing, funding, and monitoring the mitigation measures.

(b) Where possible and appropriate because of amount, MDA will include the cost of mitigation as a line item in the budget for a proposed project. Upon request, MDA will also make the results of mitigation monitoring available to the public.

(c) MDA may "mitigate to insignificance" potentially significant environmental impacts found during preparation of an EA, instead of preparing an EIS. The FONSI for the EA will include these mitigation measures, which will be carried out as the project is implemented. If, for any reason, MDA later abandons or does not meet the mitigation commitments upon which the FONSI relied, we will prepare a supplemental environmental document before continuing the project. If potentially significant environmental impacts might result from any project revisions, MDA will prepare an EIS if we used an EA for the decision to proceed, or we will prepare a supplemental EIS, if we used an EIS for the decision to proceed.

15. Supplemental EAs or EISs

(a) MDA will prepare a supplement to an EA or EIS in accordance with 40 CFR 1502.9(c), when there are substantial or significant new circumstances or information related to the proposed action, or to the environmental concerns of the proposed actions, which bear on the proposed action or its impacts. MDA may also prepare a supplement when the purposes of NEPA will be furthered by doing so.

(b) MDA prepares supplemental documents following the same general process as the original EA or EIS. No new scoping is required for a supplemental EIS; however, we may choose to conduct scoping (40 CFR 1502.9(c)(4)).

(c) When a supplemental EA or EIS is prepared, MDA will issue a new FONSI or ROD as appropriate.

16. Cooperating Agencies

When MDA is the lead agency (40 CFR 1501.5), we will invite Federal agencies with jurisdiction by law to serve as cooperating agencies. MDA may invite Federal, tribal, state and local agencies with special expertise to serve as cooperating agencies. The roles of lead and cooperating agencies are found in 40 CFR 1501.5, 1501.6, and 1508.5, and the definitions of jurisdiction by law and special expertise are found at 40 CFR 1508.15 and 1508.5.

17. Adoption of EA or EIS

The MDA may adopt an EA or EIS, or portion thereof, prepared by another agency where the MDA proposed action is substantially the same as the action described in the EA, in accordance with CEQ Guidance Memorandum for Heads of Federal Departments and Agencies: Improving the Process for Preparing Efficient and Timely Environmental Reviews under the National Environmental Policy Act, March 6, 2012, or EIS, in accordance with 40 CFR 1506.3(b). MDA will independently review the EA or EIS and determine whether it is current, satisfies the requirements of NEPA, and covers the proposed action. If the actions covered by the original NEPA analysis and the MDA proposed action are substantially the same, and MDA was not a cooperating agency, then we will reissue the EA or EIS as a final document and prepare its own FONSI or ROD, as appropriate.

18. Incorporation by Reference

MDA will incorporate material by reference to reduce paperwork and bulk. MDA will incorporate previous NEPA analyses or relevant material in an EA or EIS by citing and briefly describing the material, and ensuring that any material incorporated by reference will be made reasonably available for inspection by potentially interested persons within the time allowed for comment either in the EA, EIS, or on our Web site as specified in 40 CFR 1502.21.

19. Tiering

MDA will use tiered environmental documents to eliminate repetitive discussions of the same issues and to focus on those issues relating to specific use of the building, will not cause a substantial increase in waste discharged to the environment, will not result in substantially different waste discharges from current or previous activities, and emissions will remain within established permit limits, if any.

B–13. Acquisition, installation, modification, routine repair and replacement, and operation of utility (e.g., water, sewer, and electrical) and communication systems, mobile antennas, data processing cable and similar electronic equipment that use existing rights-of-way, easements, distribution systems, facilities, or previously disturbed land (REC required).

B–14. Acquisition, installation or minor relocation, operation and maintenance, or evaluation of physical security devices or controls to protect human or animal life and to enhance the physical security of existing critical assets in compliance with applicable Federal, tribal, state and local requirements to protect the environment. Examples include, but are not limited to:

a. Motion detection systems.

b. Raptor electrocution prevention devices.

c. Lighting.

d. Remote video surveillance systems.

e. Access controls.

f. Physical barriers, fences, grating, on or adjacent to existing facilities (REC required).

B–15. Maintenance of archaeological, historical, and endangered or threatened species avoidance markers, fencing, and signs.

B–16. Road or trail construction and repair on existing rights-of-ways or in previously disturbed areas which do not result in a change in functional use. Runoff, erosion, and sedimentation are controlled through implementation of best management practices (REC required).

B–17. Routine repair and maintenance of buildings, vessels, aircraft, grounds, and other facilities and equipment which do not result in a change in functional use or a significant impact on a historically significant element or setting. Examples include, but are not limited to: Repair of roofs, doors, windows, or fixtures, localized pest management, and minor erosion control measures.

B–18. New construction or equipment installation or alterations (interior and exterior) to or construction of an addition to an existing structure that is similar to existing land use if the area to be disturbed has no more than 5.0 cumulative acres of new surface disturbance. The following conditions must be met:

a. The structure and proposed use are compatible with applicable Federal, tribal, state, and local planning and zoning standards.

b. The site and scale of construction or improvement is consistent with those of existing, adjacent, or nearby buildings.

c. The construction or improvement will not result in uses that exceed existing support infrastructure capacities (roads, sewer, water, parking, etc.).

This does not include construction of facilities for the transportation, distribution, use, storage, treatment, and disposal of solid waste or hazardous waste (REC required).

B–19. Demolition of non-historic buildings, structures, or other improvements and repairs that result in disposal of debris therefrom, or removal of a part thereof for disposal, in accordance with applicable regulations, including those regulations applying to removal of ACM, PCBs, LBP, and other special hazard items (REC required).

B–20. Research, testing, and operations conducted at existing facilities and plants or laboratories (including contractor-operated laboratories and plants) and in compliance with all applicable safety, environmental, and natural conservation laws. Examples include, but are not limited to: Wind tunnels, high-energy lasers, remote-sensing instruments, vacuum chambers, high-altitude simulator facilities, and propellant testing facilities.

B–21. Routine installation and use of radars, telemetry systems, communications equipment, and other essentially similar facilities and equipment within a launch facility, mobile platform, military installation, training area, or previously disturbed area that conform to current American National Standards Institute/Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (ANSI/IEEE) guidelines for maximum permissible exposure to electromagnetic fields (REC required).

Defense Threat Reduction Agency/ USSTRATCOM Center for Combating Weapons of Mass Destruction NEPA Implementing Procedures

1. Purpose

Pursuant to DTRA/SCC–WMD Instruction 4715.5, "Environmental Compliance" (Aug. 22, 2014), this guide identifies requirements and provides procedures for implementing the provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) in accordance with Council on Environmental Quality Regulations for Implementing the Procedural Provisions of the National Environmental Policy Act, 40 CFR parts 1500–1508, and E.O. 12114, "Environmental Effects Abroad of Major Federal Actions" (Jan. 4, 1979). It supplements 40 CFR parts 1500–1508 and E.O. 12114 by establishing policy, responsibilities, and procedures for fully considering environmental consequences of proposed actions, preparing necessary documentation for actions with the potential for significant environmental impact, and demonstrating transparency in decision-making.

DTRA/SCC–WMD does not own real property or undertake projects or programs where actions are planned or funded by private applicants or other non-Federal entities. Therefore, this guide does not include provisions to account for such actions.

2. Applicability

The requirements and procedures of this guide apply to all entities of DTRA/SCC–WMD and its executing agents.

3. Policy

It is DTRA/SCC–WMD policy to:

(a) Integrate environmental consideration into all Agency/Center activities at the earliest possible planning stage, make decisions considering environmental consequences, assess a range of reasonable alternative actions, and take actions that protect, restore, and enhance the environment.

(b) Prepare all necessary documentation required under NEPA and 40 CFR parts 1500–1508 whenever acting as the proponent or lead agency for a proposed action that has the potential for significant environmental impact.

(c) Serve as a cooperating agency for activities in which DTRA/SCC–WMD participates but is not the proponent or lead agency and provide full cooperation and necessary technical expertise and documentation to the lead agency as requested.

(d) Use programmatic and tiered analyses, when possible, to eliminate redundancies in future project/program analyses, effectively evaluate cumulative environmental effects, and reduce mission delays.

(e) Periodically (at least every 7 years) review the effectiveness of its NEPA procedures including responsibilities, implementing procedures, and categorical exclusions (CATEXs), and when new information or circumstances warrant, review the currency of existing Programmatic Environmental Impact Statements (EISs) and Programmatic Environmental Assessments (EAs).

(f) Involve the public in preparing and executing its NEPA procedures, and publish NEPA implementing procedures, CATEXs, and other relevant NEPA documentation as appropriate on the DTRA/SCC–WMD public Web site.

(g) Prepare NEPA documentation and procedures that are written in plain language so that decision-makers and the public can readily understand them.

(h) To the fullest extent possible, integrate NEPA requirements with other environmental review and consultation requirements including, but not limited to, Clean Water Act, Clean Air Act, Endangered Species Act, National Historic Preservation Act, Resource Conservation and Recovery Act, and Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act.

(i) Eliminate duplication with State and local procedures by providing for, as appropriate, joint planning processes and, where appropriate, joint preparation of NEPA reviews (analyses and documentation).

(j) Eliminate duplication with other Federal procedures by jointly preparing NEPA reviews, or adopting other agencies' EAs and EISs, or incorporating by reference material into an EA or EIS where appropriate.

(k) Comply with host installation NEPA requirements in addition to the requirements set forth in this guide. Equivalent host installation documentation may be used to satisfy DTRA/SCC–WMD documentation requirements.

4. Responsibilities

(a) Director, DTRA/SCC–WMD (J0)

The J0 has final approval and signature authority of EIS Records of Decision (RODs) generated by DTRA/SCC–WMD or its contractors. This authority may be delegated as deemed appropriate by the J0.

(b) Joint Director (JDIR), Acquisition, Finance, and Logistics (J4/8)

The JDIR, J4/8 monitors the effective implementation of these procedures through the Director, Environment, Safety, and Occupational Health (ESOH) Department (J4E) and hereby appoints the Director, J4E as the principal Agency/Center advisor on NEPA-related requirements.

(c) Director, J4E

The Director, J4E as the principal Agency advisor on NEPA-related requirements:

(1) Provides guidance to Project/Program Managers as necessary on the requirements in this guide and maintains direct oversight of the NEPA process.

(2) Reviews project proposals to determine NEPA applicability and requirements, and provides qualified personnel to support Project/Program Managers with NEPA compliance.

(3) Performs environmental compliance reviews of EISs/RODs, EAs/Findings of No Significant Impact (FONSIs), and Records of Environmental Consideration (RECs) generated by DTRA/SCC–WMD or its contractors and provides initial approval by signature as the compliance authority.

(4) When DTRA/SCC–WMD serves as a cooperating agency for activities in which it participates but is not the proponent or lead, reviews and approves NEPA documents as requested by the lead agency.

(5) Maintains an organized administrative record of all NEPA documents generated by DTRA/SCC–WMD or its contractors, including documentation supporting Agency/Center CATEXs.

(6) Represents DTRA/SCC–WMD in NEPA-related matters with external organizations.

(7) Ensures required NEPA mitigation measures are documented in the administrative record, performed, and monitored.

to the proposed action and no action when there are no unresolved conflicts concerning alternative uses of available resources. For alternatives considered but eliminated from further study, the EA should briefly explain why these were eliminated. (v) Description of the affected environment. (vi) Analysis of the potential environmental impacts of the proposed action and alternatives. The EA must discuss, in comparative form, the reasonably foreseeable environmental impacts of the proposed action, the no action alternative, and any other reasonable alternatives necessary to address unresolved conflicts concerning the alternative use of resources. The discussion of environmental impacts must focus on substantive issues and provide sufficient evidence and analysis to support a FONSI unless a determination to prepare an EIS is made. (vii) Identification of any permits, licenses, approvals, reviews, or applicable special purpose laws. Although the NEPA process does not preclude separate compliance with these other requirements, DTRA/SCC–WMD will integrate applicable environmental review, consultation, and public involvement requirements under special purpose laws and requirements into its NEPA planning and documentation to reduce paperwork and delay. (viii) List of preparers, agencies, and persons consulted. (ix) Signature of the preparer(s) and the Director, J4E. (x) References and appendices. The appendices may include: (A) References that support statements and conclusions in the body of the EA, including methodologies used. Proper citations and, when available, hyperlinks to reference materials should be provided; (B) Evidence of coordination or required consultation with affected Federal, state, tribal, and local officials and copies or a summary of their comments or recommendations and the responses to such comments and recommendations; and (C) A summary of public involvement, including a summary of issues raised at any public hearing or public meeting.

(3) The analysis of potential environmental impacts (item (c)(2)(vi) above) will include an assessment of the direct, indirect, and cumulative impacts that can reasonably be expected from taking the proposed action or alternatives, and the analysis should address substantive comments raised by interested Federal agencies, non-Federal agencies, and private parties. (i) When direct or indirect impacts exist, the EA must consider cumulative impacts. Cumulative impacts are impacts on the environment resulting from the incremental impact of the action when added to other past, present, and reasonably foreseeable future actions. (ii) Actions by Federal agencies, non-Federal agencies, and private parties must be included when considering cumulative impacts.

(4) DTRA/SCC–WMD must coordinate, as appropriate, preparation of the EA with other agencies (Federal, state, local, or tribal governments) when the action involves resources they manage or protect, and will invite agencies with jurisdiction by law or with special expertise to participate as cooperating agencies. (i) Agencies with jurisdiction by law are those with the authority to grant permits for implementing actions, approve or veto portions of the proposed action, or finance a portion of the proposed action. Federal agencies with jurisdiction by law must be a cooperating agency. Non-federal agencies may be invited. (ii) Agencies with special expertise are those that have the expertise needed to help meet a statutory responsibility, to carry out in part the DTRA/SCC–WMD mission, or in the proposed actions' relationship to the objectives of regional, state, or local land use plans, policies, and controls. Federal and non-federal agencies may be invited.

(5) DTRA/SCC–WMD must involve the public, to the extent practicable, in preparing EAs. (i) The appropriate level of involvement will vary based on the proposed action. A public scoping meeting, as described in 40 CFR 1501.7, is not required for an EA but is optional. Scoping can be particularly useful when an EA deals with uncertainty or controversy regarding potential conflicts over the use of resources or the environmental impacts of the proposed actions. The scoping process can provide a transparent way to identify environmental issues, focusing the analysis on the most pertinent issues and impacts. (ii) A draft EA should be circulated for 30 days of public comment and, if applicable, with the unsigned proposed FONSI, per paragraph (d)(7) of the FONSI provisions below. The length of comment period may be adjusted based on mission requirements.

(6) DTRA/SCC–WMD will use the conclusions of an EA to determine whether to issue a FONSI or an NOI to prepare an EIS (found in Appendix D).

(d) Finding of No Significant Impact (FONSI)

(1) A FONSI is a document that briefly presents the reasons why a proposed action will not have a significant effect on the human environment and for which an EIS therefore will not be prepared. It must include the EA or a summary of it and note any other environmental documents related to it.

(2) Mitigated FONSIs are appropriate where the J4E and Project/Program Manager, or other decision-maker for the project/program determine that mitigation measures can reduce potentially significant adverse impacts below the level of significance. These mitigation measures may be used to support a FONSI, provided that: (i) The relevant areas of environmental concern are identified in the EA; (ii) The EA supports the Agency's determination that the potential impacts, including the impacts of any mitigation commitments, will be insignificant; and (iii) The Agency has identified mitigation measures that will be sufficient to reduce potential impacts below applicable significance thresholds and has ensured commitments to implement these measures.

(3) Mitigation that is used to support a mitigated FONSI must be included as a condition of project approval. In these cases, if DTRA/SCC–WMD's decision to act is not otherwise evidenced by a final decision document such as a rule, license, or approval, the J4E and the Project Manager or other decision-maker for the project/program must document the decision in the conclusion of the FONSI. The decision must identify those mitigation measures DTRA/SCC–WMD is adopting and identify any monitoring and enforcement program applicable to such measures (see Section 6: Mitigation and Monitoring).

(4) A FONSI or Mitigated FONSI must document, in plain writing, the reasons why an action, not otherwise categorically excluded, would not have a significant impact on the human environment. The FONSI documents the basis for the determination that the proposed action would not have significant environmental impacts and the decision to implement the proposed action. The FONSI may be attached to an EA, or the EA and FONSI may be combined into a single document. If the FONSI is attached or combined with the EA, it need not repeat the discussion in the EA. If the FONSI is not attached or combined with the EA, the FONSI must include a summary of the EA and note any other environmental documents related to it. The FONSI must: (i) Briefly describe the proposed action, the purpose and need, and the alternatives considered (including the no action alternative), and assess and document all relevant matters necessary to support the conclusion that the proposed action would not significantly affect the

An executive summary that adequately and accurately summarizes the EIS. The summary describes the proposed action, stresses the major conclusions, areas of controversy (including issues raised by agencies and the public), and the issues to be resolved (including the choice among alternatives). It also discusses major environmental considerations and how these have been addressed, summarizes the analysis of alternatives, and identifies the agency preferred alternative. It discusses mitigation measures and any monitoring. (iii) A table of contents that lists the chapters and exhibits (including figures, maps, and tables) presented throughout the EIS. It will also list any appendices, acronym list, glossary, references, and index. (iv) A Purpose and Need section that briefly describes the underlying purpose and need for the Federal action. It presents the problem being addressed and describes what DTRA/SCC–WMD is trying to achieve with the proposed action. It provides the parameters for defining a reasonable range of alternatives to be considered. The purpose and need for the proposed action must be clearly explained and stated in terms that are understandable to individuals who are not familiar with DTRA/SCC–WMD activities. Where appropriate, the responsible DTRA/SCC–WMD official should initiate early coordination with cooperating agencies in developing purpose and need. (v) An Alternatives section that includes the proposed action. This section is the heart of the EIS. It presents a comparative analysis of the no action alternative, the proposed action, and other reasonable alternatives to fulfill the purpose and need for the action, to sharply define the issues, and provide a clear basis for choice among alternatives by the approving official. Whether a proposed alternative is reasonable depends, in large part, upon the extent to which it meets the purpose and need for the proposed action. Reasonable alternatives not within the jurisdiction of the lead agency should be considered. DTRA/SCC–WMD may include alternatives proposed by the public or another agency. However, they must meet the basic criteria for any alternative: It must be reasonable, feasible, and achieve the project's purpose. The extent of active participation in the NEPA process by the proponent of the alternative also bears on the extent to which a preferred alternative deserves consideration. Charts, graphs, and figures, if appropriate, may aid in understanding the alternatives. To provide a clear basis of choice among the alternatives, graphic or tabular presentation of the comparative impact is recommended. This section also presents a brief discussion of alternatives that were not considered for detailed analysis (e.g., because they do not meet the purpose and need for the proposed action). The draft EIS must identify the preferred alternative or alternatives, if one or more exists at the time the draft EIS is issued. The final EIS must specifically and individually identify the preferred alternative. Criteria other than those included in the affected environment and environmental consequences sections of the EIS may be applied to identify the preferred alternative. Although CEQ encourages Federal agencies to identify the environmentally-preferred alternatives in the EIS, the CEQ Regulations do not require that discussion until the ROD. (vi) An affected environment section that describes the environmental conditions of the potentially affected geographic area or areas. The discussion of the affected environment should be no longer than is necessary. It should include detailed discussion of only those environmental impact categories affected by the proposed action or any reasonable alternatives to demonstrate the likely impacts; data and analyses should be presented in detail commensurate with the importance of the impact. To ensure that this section emphasizes the important aspects of the impacts on the environment, the discussion should summarize and incorporate by reference information or analysis that is reasonably available to the public. This section may include the following, if appropriate: (A) Location map, vicinity map, project layout plan, and photographs; (B) Existing and planned land uses and zoning, including: industrial and commercial growth characteristics in the affected vicinity; affected residential areas, schools, places of outdoor assemblies of persons, churches, and hospitals; public parks, wildlife and waterfowl refuges; federally listed or proposed candidate, threatened, or endangered species or federally designated or proposed critical habitat; wetlands; national and state forests; floodplains; farmlands; coastal zones, coastal barriers, or coral reefs; recreation areas; wilderness areas; wild and scenic rivers; Native American cultural sites, and historic and archeological sites eligible for or listed on the National Register of Historic Places; (C) State or local jurisdictions affected by the proposed action or any reasonable alternatives; (D) Population estimates and other relevant demographic information for the affected environment, including a census map where appropriate; and (E) Past, present, and reasonably foreseeable future actions, whether Federal or non-Federal, including related or connected actions to show the cumulative effects of these actions on the affected environment. (vii) An environmental consequences section, which forms the scientific and analytical basis for comparing the proposed action, the no action alternative, and other alternatives retained for detailed analysis. (A) The discussion of environmental consequences will include the environmental impacts of the alternatives including the proposed action; any adverse environmental impacts that cannot be avoided should the proposed action or any of the reasonable alternatives be implemented; the relationship between short-term uses of man's environment and the maintenance and enhancement of long-term productivity; any irreversible or irretrievable commitments of resources that would be involved in the proposed action or any reasonable alternatives should they be implemented; and mitigation. It must include considerations of direct, indirect, and cumulative impacts and their significance and possible conflicts with the objectives of Federal, regional, state, tribal, and local land use plans, policies, and controls for the area concerned and other unresolved conflicts. To avoid excessive length, the environmental consequences section may incorporate by reference background data to support the impacts analysis. 40 CFR 1502.22 sets forth requirements for addressing situations in which information for assessing reasonably foreseeable significant adverse impacts is incomplete or unavailable. (B) Specific environmental impact categories must be discussed to the level of detail necessary to support the comparisons of impacts of each alternative retained for detailed analysis, including the no action alternative. The section should include the information required to demonstrate compliance with other applicable requirements and should identify any permits, licenses, other approvals, or reviews that apply to the proposed action or any reasonable alternatives, and indicate any known problems with obtaining them. This section should also provide the status of any interagency or intergovernmental consultation required, for example, under the National Historic Preservation Act, 16 U.S.C. 470–470x–6, the Endangered Species Act, 16 U.S.C. 1531–1544, the Coastal Zone input or concern and documenting a response, update the EIS as necessary, and complete an ROD (found in Appendix F) or terminate the proposed action. (i) DTRA/SCC–WMD must take into consideration all comments received on the draft EIS and comments recorded during public meetings or hearings, and respond to the substantive comments in the final EIS. All substantive comments received on the draft EIS (or summaries where the comments are voluminous) must be attached to the final EIS. Comments must be responded to in one or more of the following ways: (A) Written into the text of the final EIS; (B) Stated in an errata sheet attached to the final EIS; or (C) Included or summarized and responded to in an attachment to the final EIS, and if voluminous, may be compiled in a separate supplemental volume for reference. (ii) DTRA/SCC–WMD may, subject to the conditions set forth below, attach errata sheets to the draft EIS. If the modifications to the draft EIS in response to comments are minor and are confined to factual corrections or explanations of why the comments do not warrant additional agency response, then only the comments, responses, and errata sheets need to be circulated and the draft EIS and errata sheets may be filed as the final EIS as set out in 40 CFR1503.4(c). Use of errata sheets is subject to the condition that the errata sheets: (A) Cite the sources, authorities, or reasons that support the position of DTRA/SCC–WMD; and (B) If appropriate, indicate the circumstances that would trigger agency reappraisal or further response.

(9) The cover page or summary of the final EIS or a draft EIS with errata sheets in lieu of a final EIS must include the following declaration language below. After careful and thorough consideration of the information contained herein and following consideration of the views of those Federal agencies having jurisdiction by law or special expertise with respect to the environmental impacts described, the undersigned finds that the proposed Federal action is consistent with existing national environmental policies and objectives as set forth in Section 101(a) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

(10) Other required environmental findings and conclusions must be included in the summary, if not included in the body or at the end of the EIS.

(11) The final EIS must be reviewed and approved by the Project/Program Manager and the J4E prior to generating an ROD.

(12) The J4E will file the final EIS with the EPA through the e-NEPA electronic filing system at: http://www.epa.gov/oecaerth/nepa/submiteis/index.html. The EPA will issue an NOA for the final EIS in the FR. The Project/Program Manager may request that the J0XG also publish a more detailed availability notice in the FR, but the DTRA/SCC–WMD notice cannot be substituted for the EPA FR notice. The final EIS must be sent to: (i) The appropriate regional office of EPA; (ii) Any relevant DoD officials; (iii) Each Federal, state, and local agency, tribe, and private organization that made substantive comments on the draft EIS and to individuals who requested a copy of the final EIS or who made substantive comments on the draft EIS (one copy each); (iv) DOE headquarters for projects having major energy-related consequences (one copy); and (v) The appropriate state-designated single point of contact (or specific agency contacts when states have not designated a single contact point), unless otherwise designated by the governor (adequate number of copies, which varies by state). (vi) Additional copies must be sent to accessible locations to be made available to the general public such as state, metropolitan, and local public libraries to facilitate accessibility. The final EIS, comments received, and supporting documents must be made available to the public without charge to the fullest extent practical or at a reduced charge, which is not more than the actual cost of reproducing copies, at appropriate agency office(s) or at a designated location.

(13) DTRA/SCC–WMD must wait a minimum of 30 days after the EPA NOA of the final EIS is published in the FR (and at least 90 days after filing of the draft EIS) before making a decision on the proposed action and issuing an ROD. The 30-day period provides time for the decision-maker to consider the final EIS and other pertinent information and make a decision; it is not for receiving public comments unless DTRA/SCC–WMD requests comments on the final EIS. At the conclusion of the 30-day waiting period, the J0 may issue the final decision in an ROD and implementation of the selected action may begin. (i) When DTRA/SCC–WMD is the lead Federal agency, the EPA, upon a showing by another Federal agency of compelling reasons of national policy, may extend prescribed periods up to 30 days, but no longer than 30 days without the permission of DTRA/SCC–WMD. The Project/Program Manager may also extend the waiting period or request the EPA to reduce this period for compelling reasons of national policy. The 90-day waiting period after the NOA of the draft EIS cannot be altered by the EPA. (ii) If DTRA/SCC–WMD unilaterally approves an overall extension of a comment period, the EPA must be notified so that the EPA may provide an update in its FR notice.

(14) Under certain circumstances, DTRA/SCC–WMD may choose to terminate an EIS. This could occur, for example, when a proponent has decided not to go forward with the action or it is determined to be no longer needed. DTRA/SCC–WMD may also terminate an EIS and revert to an EA if the environmental analysis shows that there would not be significant impacts from the project. DTRA/SCC–WMD will provide notice of the determination to no longer conduct an EIS that is issued in a manner comparable to the publication and distribution used for the NOI to prepare the EIS. The notice should cite the date of the original NOI to prepare an EIS and state the reasons why DTRA/SCC–WMD has chosen to terminate the EIS.

(f) Record of Decision (ROD)

(1) The ROD (Appendix F) will state DTRA/SCC–WMD's final decision on which action will be taken. The ROD may be prepared after the time periods outlined in the EIS section above. The Project/Program Manager and the J4E must provide concurrence on the ROD before submitting to the J0 for approval. Supplements to final EISs may be necessary (see Section (7)(b) Supplemental EAs/EISs) and must be reviewed and approved in the same manner as the original document, and a new draft ROD should be prepared, circulated, and approved. (i) DTRA/SCC–WMD may select any alternative within the range of alternatives analyzed in the final EIS. The selected alternative may be an alternative other than the agency's preferred alternative or the environmentally-preferred alternative. The selected action may not be implemented until the J0 has approved and signed the ROD. (ii) If DTRA/SCC–WMD selects an alternative other than the preferred alternative in the final EIS that involves special purpose laws and requirements, such as those related to Section 4(f) land, federally listed endangered species, wetlands, or historic sites, the Agency must first complete any required permit, evaluation, consultation, or other approval requirement prior to taking the action.

(2) DTRA/SCC–WMD must provide public notice of availability of the ROD

(2) Significant information is information that paints a dramatically different picture of impacts compared to the description of impacts in the EA or EIS. DTRA/SCC–WMD may also prepare supplements when the purposes of NEPA will be furthered by doing so.

(3) Supplemental documents must be prepared following the same general process as the original EA or EIS addressing the new circumstances, information, or actions and incorporating by reference and summary the original EA or EIS. No new scoping is required for a supplemental EIS, but may be conducted at the discretion of the Project/Program Manager or the Director, J4E.

(4) When a supplemental EA or EIS is completed, a new FONSI or ROD must be issued and made available to the public.

(c) Adoption of EAs/EISs

(1) DTRA/SCC–WMD may adopt in whole or in part, another Federal agency's draft or final EA, the EA portion of another agency's EA/FONSI, or EIS in accordance with 40 CFR 1506.3 and CEQ Guidance, "Improving the Process for Preparing Efficient and Timely Environmental Reviews under the National Environmental Policy Act," March 6, 2012, where DTRA/SCC–WMD's proposed action is substantially the same as the action described in the existing EA or EIS. When another agency's NEPA document does not adequately address DTRA/SCC–WMD's proposed action or meet the applicable standards in the CEQ Regulations and these implementing procedures, then DTRA/SCC–WMD cannot adopt the EA or EIS and should consider which portions of that EA or EIS can be incorporated by reference.

(2) The Project/Program Manager and J4E will independently review the EA or EIS and determine whether it is current, satisfies the requirements of NEPA, and covers the proposed action. In adopting all or part of another agency's NEPA document, DTRA/SCC–WMD takes full responsibility for the scope and content that addresses the relevant DTRA/SCC–WMD action(s).

(3) If the actions covered by the original NEPA analysis and the DTRA/SCC–WMD proposed action are substantially the same, DTRA/SCC–WMD may reissue the EA or EIS as a final document and prepare its own FONSI or ROD. The EA or EIS will be recirculated and a public comment period will be provided per Section 5(e) above. When DTRA/SCC–WMD adopts an EA or EIS where it has acted as a cooperating agency and its comments and suggestions have been satisfied by the lead agency in the original document, then coordination with the public is not required.

8. Actions on Host Installations/Actions Abroad

(a) Actions on Host Installations

DTRA/SCC–WMD must comply with the host installation NEPA implementing regulations, procedures, and guidance in addition to those set forth in this guide, and all environmental compliance actions must be coordinated with the appropriate host installation point of contact. Equivalent host installation documentation may be used to satisfy DTRA/SCC–WMD documentation requirements when signed and approved by DTRA/SCC–WMD and maintained in its administrative record.

(b) Actions Occurring Abroad

(1) Executive Order 12114 is based on the authority vested in the President by the Constitution and the laws of the United States. The objective of the Executive Order is to further foreign policy and national security interests while at the same time taking into consideration important environmental concerns. DTRA/SCC–WMD acts with care in the global commons because the stewardship of these areas is shared by all the nations of the world. DTRA/SCC–WMD will take account of environmental considerations when it acts in the global commons in accordance with these procedures.

(2) DTRA/SCC–WMD also acts with care within the jurisdiction of a foreign nation. Treaty obligations and the sovereignty of other nations must be respected, and restraint must be exercised in applying United States laws within foreign nations unless the Congress has expressly provided otherwise. DTRA/SCC–WMD will take account of environmental considerations in accordance with these procedures when it acts in a foreign nation.

(3) Foreign policy considerations require coordination with the Department of State on communications with foreign governments concerning environmental agreements and other formal arrangements with foreign governments concerning environmental matters. Informal working-level communications and arrangements are not included in this coordination requirement. Consultation with the Department of State also is required in connection with the utilization of additional exemptions from these procedures.

(4) Executive Order 12114, implemented by these procedures, prescribes the exclusive and complete procedural measures and other actions to be taken by DTRA/SCC–WMD to further the purpose of the National Environmental Policy Act with respect to the environment outside the United States. As such, actions with potential for significant environmental impact occurring abroad or in the global commons outside the jurisdiction of any nation (e.g., the ocean or Antarctica) are subject to the environmental analysis procedures set forth in this Guide with the exception of hosting public meetings. Project/Program Managers may choose to host public meetings in consideration of the following factors: (i) Foreign relations sensitivities. (ii) Whether the hearings would be an infringement or create the appearance of infringement on the sovereign responsibilities of another government. (iii) Requirements of domestic and foreign governmental confidentiality. (iv) Requirements of national security. (v) Whether meaningful information could be obtained through hearings; (vi) Time considerations. (vii) Requirements for commercial confidentiality.

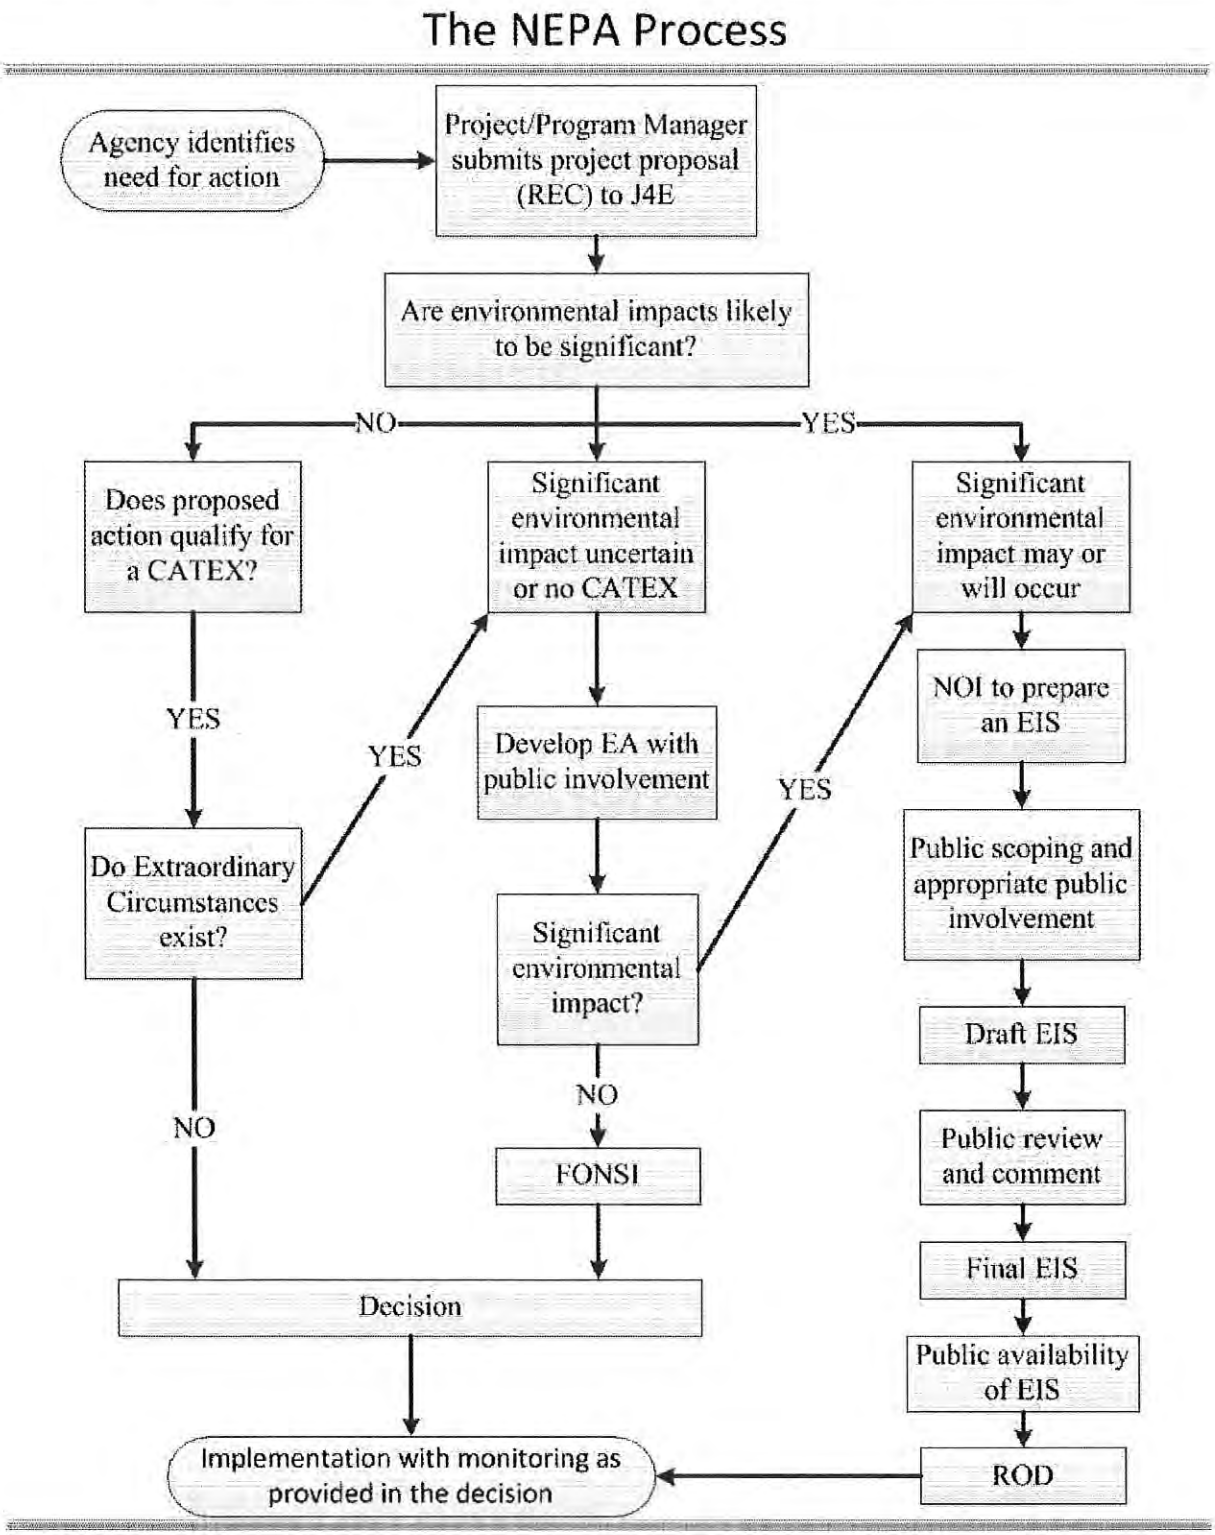

(5) Consideration will be given to whether any foreign government should be informed of the availability of environmental documents. Communications with foreign governments concerning environmental agreements and other formal arrangements with foreign governments concerning environmental matters must be coordinated by the J0XG with the Department of State through the Assistant Secretary of Defense (International Security Affairs).

9. Classified Actions

(a) Classification of an action for national security does not relieve DTRA/SCC–WMD from the requirements of NEPA. DTRA/SCC–WMD will prepare, safeguard, and disseminate NEPA documents in accordance with DoD requirements for classified information.

(b) Classified information in NEPA documents will be written in a separate appendix from unclassified information so that the unclassified portions of the documents can be made available to the public.

(c) When classified information is an integral part of the analysis so that a meaningful unclassified NEPA analysis cannot be produced, the Project/Program Manager in coordination with the J4E will form a team to review the classified NEPA analysis. This team will include environmental professionals and subject matter experts who will

Appendix B: Categorical Exclusions (CATEXS)

This Appendix includes categorical exclusions (CATEXs) and extraordinary circumstances for DTRA/SCC–WMD activities.

Actions categorically excluded in the absence of extraordinary circumstances are:

1. Normal personnel, fiscal or budgeting, and administrative activities and decisions, including those involving military and civilian personnel (for example, recruiting, processing, data collection, conducting surveys, payroll, and record keeping).

2. Preparing, revising, or adopting regulations, instructions, directives, or guidance documents, including those that implement without substantial change to the eligible for listing on the National Register of Historic Places. c. Areas having special designation or recognition such as prime or unique agricultural lands; coastal zones; designated wilderness or wilderness study areas; wild and scenic rivers; National Historic Landmarks (designated by the Secretary of the Interior); floodplains; wetlands; sole source aquifers (potential sources of drinking water); National Wildlife Refuges; National Parks; areas of critical environmental concern; or other areas of high environmental sensitivity. d. 10. A reasonable likelihood of effects on the quality of the environment that are highly controversial on environmental grounds. The term "controversial" means a substantial dispute exists as to the size, nature, or effect of the proposed action rather than to the existence of opposition to a proposed action, the effect of which is relatively undisputed.

11. A reasonable likelihood of a disproportionately high and adverse effect on low income or minority populations (see Executive Order 12898).

12. Limit access to and ceremonial use of Indian sacred sites on Federal lands by Indian religious practitioners or significantly adversely affect the physical integrity of such sacred sites (see Executive Order 13007).

13. Contribute to the introduction, continued existence, or spread of noxious weeds or non-native invasive species known to occur in the area or actions that may promote the introduction, growth, or expansion of the range of such species (Federal Noxious Weed Control Act and Executive Order 13112).

14. A greater scope or size than is normal for this category of action.

15. A reasonable likelihood of degrading already existing poor environmental conditions. Also, initiation of a degrading influence, activity, or effect in areas not already significantly modified from their natural condition.

16. A precedent (or makes decisions in principle) for future or subsequent actions that have a reasonable likelihood of having a future significant effect.

17. Introduction or employment of unproven technology.

18. A reasonable likelihood of (i) releases of petroleum, oils, and lubricants (except from a properly functioning engine or vehicle) or reportable releases of hazardous or toxic substances as specified in 40 CFR part 302, Designation, Reportable Quantities, and Notification); (ii) application of pesticides and herbicides; (iii) or where the proposed action results in the requirement to develop or amend a Spill Prevention, Control, or Countermeasures Plan.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Under Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C. § 2000d, et seq. (Title VI), and DoD regulations implementing Title VI, recipients of Federal financial assistance from DoD ("recipients") have a responsibility to ensure that individuals are not unlawfully discriminated against on the basis of race, color or national origin, which includes are requirement to provide for meaningful access by persons with limited English proficiency (LEP) to their programs and activities. See 32 CFR Part 195. Executive Order 13166, signed August 11, 2000 and published at 65 FR 50121 (August 16, 2000), directs each Federal agency that extends assistance subject to the requirements of Title VI to publish, after review and approval by the Department of Justice (DOJ), guidance for its recipients clarifying that obligation. The Executive Order also directs that all such guidance be consistent with the compliance standards and framework set forth by DOJ.

On March 14, 2002, the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) issued a Report to Congress titled "Assessment of the Total Benefits and Costs of Implementing Executive Order No. 13166: Improving Access to Services for Persons with Limited English Proficiency." Among other things, the Report recommended the adoption of uniform guidance across all Federal agencies, with flexibility to permit tailoring to each agency's specific recipients. Consistent with this OMB recommendation, the DOJ published LEP Guidance for DOJ recipients which was drafted and organized to also function as a model for similar guidance by other Federal grant agencies. See 67 FR 41455 (June 18, 2002). This final DoD Guidance is based upon of the model June 18, 2002, DOJ LEP Guidance for Recipients.

The primary focus of this Guidance is on entities that receive Federal financial assistance from DoD, either directly or indirectly, through a grant, cooperative agreement, contract or subcontract, and operate programs or activities or portions of programs or activities in the United States and its territories.

In connection with the issuance of this Guidance, each DoD component is encouraged to review their current programs and activities to determine whether they provide the type of external assistance to a recipient which is subject to Title VI. If Title VI is determined to be applicable to one or more program or activity, the administering component should consider developing a program-specific Appendix to this Guidance. The Appendix should explain how the component's recipients may ensure meaningful linguistic access consistent with the principles and compliance standards set out in DoD's LEP Guidance for Recipients below. Any future Appendix must be submitted to DOJ for review and approval prior to publication in the Federal Register.

It has been determined that the Guidance does not constitute a regulation subject to the rulemaking requirements of the Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C § 533. It has also been determined that this Guidance is not subject to the requirements of Executive Order 12866.

A. Response to Comments

DoD interim final guidance on DoD recipients' obligations to take reasonable steps to ensure access by LEP persons was published on February 15, 2012. See 77 FR 8828. The comment period was open until March 16, 2012. DoD received one comment representing one organization in response to its publication of draft guidance on DoD recipients' obligations to take reasonable steps to ensure access to programs and activities by LEP persons. The comment expressed concern about use of the disparate impact approach to enforce Title VI of the Civil Right Acts of 1964. DoD addresses this issue in section II, Legal Authority, of this guidance.

Dated: December 24, 2013.

I. Introduction

Most individuals living in the United States read, write, speak and understand English. There are many individuals, however, for whom English is not their primary language. For instance, based on the 2000 census, over 26 million individuals speak Spanish and almost 7 million individuals speak an Asian or Pacific Island language at home. If these individuals have a limited ability to read, write, speak, or understand English, they are limited English proficient, or "LEP." The 2000 census indicates that 28.1% of all Spanish-speakers, 28.2% of all speakers of Chinese languages, and 32.3% of all Vietnamese-speakers reported that they spoke English "not well" or "not at all."

Language for LEP individuals can be a barrier to accessing important benefits or services, understanding and exercising important rights, complying with applicable responsibilities, or understanding other information provided by federally funded programs and activities. The Federal Government funds an array of services that can be made accessible to otherwise eligible LEP persons. The Federal Government is committed to improving the accessibility of these programs and activities to eligible LEP persons, a goal that reinforces its equally important commitment to promoting programs and activities designed to help individuals learn English. Recipients should not overlook the long-term positive impacts of incorporating or offering English as a Second Language (ESL) programs in parallel with language assistance services. ESL courses can serve as an important adjunct to a proper LEP plan. However, the fact that ESL classes are made available does not obviate the statutory and regulatory requirement to provide meaningful access for those who are not yet English proficient. Recipients of Federal financial assistance have an obligation to reduce language barriers that can preclude meaningful access by LEP persons to important government services.[1]

This policy Guidance clarifies existing legal requirements for LEP persons by providing a description of the factors recipients should consider in fulfilling their responsibilities to LEP persons.[2] These are the same criteria DoD has been and will continue to use in evaluating whether recipients are in compliance with Title VI and Title VI regulations.

In certain circumstances, failure to ensure that LEP persons can effectively participate in or benefit from federally assisted programs and activities may violate the prohibition under Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C. 2000d, and Title VI regulations against national origin discrimination. The purpose of this policy Guidance is to assist recipients in fulfilling their responsibility to provide meaningful access to LEP persons under existing law.

[1] DoD recognizes that many recipients had language assistance programs in place prior to the issuance of Executive Order 13166. This Guidance provides a uniform framework for a recipient to integrate, formalize, and assess the continued vitality of these existing and possibly additional reasonable efforts based on the nature of its program or activity, the current needs of the LEP population it encounters, and its prior experience in providing language services in the community it serves.

[2] This policy guidance is not a regulation but rather a guide. Title VI and its implementing regulations require that recipients take responsible steps to ensure meaningful access by LEP persons. This Guidance provides an analytical framework that recipients may use to determine how best to comply with statutory and regulatory obligations to provide meaningful access to the benefits, services, information, and other important portions of their programs and activities for individuals who are limited English proficient.

land or property, details of Federal or Federally funded personnel, or any agreement, arrangement or other contract that has as one of its purposes the provision of assistance.

Examples of recipients of DoD assistance covered by this Guidance include, but are not limited to:

—State and local government agencies and any other entities that receive DoD-donated land or land that is sold at or below-market rate; and —Organizations and institutions, such as nonprofit organizations or educational institutions, receiving grants to conduct scientific, medical, environmental or other research.

Title VI prohibits discrimination in any program or activity that receives Federal financial assistance. In most cases, when a recipient receives Federal financial assistance for a particular program or activity, all operations of the recipient are covered by Title VI, not just the part of the program that uses the Federal assistance. Thus, all parts of the recipient's operations would be covered by Title VI, even if the Federal assistance were used only by one part.[3] Sub-recipients likewise are covered when Federal funds are passed through from one recipient to a sub-recipient.

Finally, some recipients operate in jurisdictions in which English has been declared the official language. Nonetheless, these recipients continue to be subject to Federal non-discrimination requirements, including those applicable to the provision of federally assisted services to persons with limited English proficiency.

IV. Who is a limited English proficient individual?

Individuals who do not speak English as their primary language and who have a limited ability to read, write, speak, or understand English can be limited English proficient, or "LEP," entitled to language assistance with respect to a particular type of service, benefit, or encounter.

Examples of populations likely to include LEP persons who are encountered and/or served by DoD recipients and should be considered when planning language services include, but are not limited to:

—Persons who are included in DoD-funded medical studies;

—Persons who participate in support groups that are funded by DoD;

—Persons who encounter or who are eligible to receive benefits or services from a state or local agency that is a recipient of DoD assistance;

—Persons who encounter or are eligible to participate in portions of programs or activities of an institution of higher learning that receives DoD assistance;

—Persons who are served by programs or activities run by recipients of DoD-donated land;

—Persons who attend community meetings or other public meetings organized by DoD recipients;[4]

—Other LEP persons who encounter or are eligible to receive benefits or services from DoD recipients; and —Parents and family members of the above.

V. How does a recipient determine the extent of its obligation to provide LEP services?

Recipients are required to take reasonable steps to ensure meaningful access to their programs and activities by LEP persons. While designed to be a flexible and fact-dependent standard, the starting point is an individualized assessment that balances the following four factors: (1) The number or proportion of LEP persons eligible to be served or likely to be encountered by the program or activity or portion thereof; (2) the frequency with which LEP individuals come in contact with the program or activity or portion thereof; (3) the nature and importance of the program, activity, service, benefit, or information provided by the recipient to people's lives; and (4) the resources available to the grantee/recipient and costs. As indicated above, the intent of this Guidance is to suggest a balance that ensures meaningful access by LEP persons to critical services while not imposing undue burdens on small business, small local governments, or small nonprofits.

After applying the above four-factor analysis, a recipient may conclude that different language assistance measures are sufficient for the different types of encounters. For instance, some portions of a recipient's program or activity will be more important than others and/or have greater impact on or contact with LEP persons, and thus may require more in the way of language assistance. The flexibility that recipients have in addressing the needs of the LEP populations they serve does not diminish, and should not be used to minimize, the obligation that those needs be addressed. DoD recipients should apply the following four factors to the various kinds of contacts that they have with the public to assess language needs and decide what reasonable steps they should take to ensure meaningful access for LEP persons.

(1) The Number or Proportion of LEP Persons Served or Encountered in the Eligible Service Population

One factor in determining what language services recipients should provide is the number or proportion of LEP persons from a particular language group served or encountered in the eligible service population. The greater the number or proportion of these LEP persons, the more likely language services are needed. Ordinarily, persons "eligible to be served or likely to be encountered by" a recipient's program or activity are those who are served or encountered in the eligible service population. This population will be program-specific, and includes persons who are in the geographic area that has been approved by a Federal grant agency as the recipient's service area. However, where, for instance, a regional office of a nonprofit that provides support services for cancer survivors serves a large LEP population, the appropriate service area is most likely the regional office of the nonprofit organization, and not the entire population served by the non-profit. Where no service area has previously been approved, the relevant service area may be that which is approved by state or local authorities or designated by the recipient itself, provided that these designations do not themselves discriminatorily exclude certain populations. In addition, there may be circumstances in which recipients appropriately identify English language skills as an eligibility criterion, such as in the case of a university English language masters program. But other portions of the program, such as a university daycare or clinic open to the public, or various public community events, cultural exchanges, campus security, or other portions of a recipient's operations, may have a more significant LEP population that may be encountered or is eligible to participate. When considering the number or proportion of LEP individuals in a service area, recipients should consider LEP parent(s) when their English-proficient or LEP minor children and dependents encounter the recipient's program or activity.

[3] However, if a Federal agency were to decide to terminate Federal funds based on noncompliance with Title VI or its regulations, only funds directed to the particular program or activity that is out of compliance would be terminated. 42 U.S.C. 2000d–1.

[4] For additional guidance on providing meaningful access to LEP individuals at public hearings or meetings, see Department of Housing and Urban Development Notice of Guidance to Federal Assistance Recipients Regarding Title VI Prohibition Against National Origin Discrimination Affecting Limited English Proficient Persons, 68 FR 70980 (Dec. 19, 2003) (available at http://www.lep.gov).

created three years ago after DoD donated land from a former military base serves a large Hispanic population. The job training center may need immediate oral interpreters to be available and should give serious consideration to hiring some bilingual staff if they have not done so already. By contrast, the center may be able to rely on a telephonic interpretation service to assist those LEP individuals who speak a language that is not commonly encountered by the center. Regardless of the type of language service provided, quality and accuracy of those services can be critical in order to avoid serious consequences to the LEP person and to the recipient. Recipients have substantial flexibility in determining the appropriate mix.

VI. Selecting Language Assistance Services

Academic institutions, nonprofit organizations, and other recipients of DoD funds have a long history of interacting with people with varying language backgrounds and capabilities. In fact, many DoD recipients choose not only to provide interpretation and translation services, but also to provide English-language training for LEP individuals. This approach is consistent with the purpose of Executive Order 13166. DoD's goal is to continue to encourage these efforts and to encourage the sharing of such promising practices among recipients, as well as to ensure meaningful linguistic access for LEP individuals.

Recipients have two main ways to provide language services: Oral and written language services. Quality and accuracy of the language service is critical in order to avoid serious consequences to the LEP person and to the recipient.

A. Oral Language Services (Interpretation)

Interpretation is the act of listening to something in one language (source language) and orally translating it into another language (target language). Where interpretation is needed and is reasonable, recipients should consider some or all of the following options for providing competent interpreters in a timely manner:

—When providing oral assistance, recipients should ensure competency of the language service provider, no matter which of the strategies outlined below are used. Competency requires more than self-identification as bilingual. Some bilingual staff and community volunteers, for instance, may be able to communicate effectively in a different language when communicating information directly in that language, but not be competent to interpret in and out of English. Likewise, they may not be able to do written translations.

—Competency to interpret, however, does not necessarily mean formal certification as an interpreter, although certification is helpful. When using interpreters, recipients should ensure that they:

—Demonstrate proficiency in and ability to communicate information accurately in both English and in the other language and identify and employ the appropriate mode of interpreting (e.g., consecutive, simultaneous, summarization, or sight translation);

—Have knowledge in both languages of any specialized terms or concepts peculiar to the entity's program or activity and of any particularized vocabulary and phraseology used by the LEP person;[7] and understand and follow confidentiality and impartiality rules to the same extent the recipient employee for whom they are interpreting and/or to the extent their position requires;

—Understand and adhere to their role as interpreters without deviating into a role as counselor, legal advisor, or other roles, particularly in a formal context such as a hearing.

While quality and accuracy of language services is critical, the quality and accuracy of language services is nonetheless part of the appropriate mix of LEP services required. The quality and accuracy of language services provided during the medical screening of a LEP individual must be extraordinarily high, while the quality and accuracy of language services provided at a university's social program need not meet the same exacting standards.

Finally, when interpretation is needed and is reasonable, it should be provided in a timely manner. To be meaningfully effective, language assistance should be timely. While there is no single definition for "timely" applicable to all types of interactions at all times by all types of recipients, one clear guide is that the language assistance should be provided at a time and place that avoids the effective denial of the service, benefit, or right at issue or the imposition of an undue burden on or delay in important rights, benefits, or services to the LEP person. For example, when the timeliness of services is important, such as with certain activities of DoD recipients providing health, economic, educational, and safety services on DoD-donated land, a recipient would likely not be providing meaningful access if it had one bilingual staffer available one day a week to provide the service. Such conduct would likely result in delays for LEP persons that would be significantly greater than those for English proficient persons. Conversely, where access to or exercise of a service, benefit, or right is not effectively precluded by a reasonable delay, language assistance can likely be delayed for a reasonable period.

Hiring Bilingual Staff. When particular languages are encountered often, hiring bilingual staff offers one of the best and often most economical, options. Recipients can, for example, fill public contact positions, such as receptionists, guards, or social workers, with staff who are bilingual and competent to communicate directly with LEP persons in their language. If bilingual staff are also used to interpret between English speakers and LEP persons, or to orally interpret written documents from English into another language, they should be competent in the skill of interpreting. Being bilingual does not necessarily mean that a person has the ability to interpret. In addition, there may be times when the role of the bilingual employee may conflict with the role of an interpreter. Effective management strategies, including any appropriate adjustments in assignments and protocols for using bilingual staff, can ensure that bilingual staff are fully and appropriately utilized. When bilingual staff cannot meet all of the language service obligations of the recipient, the recipient should turn to other options.

Hiring Staff Interpreters. Hiring interpreters may be most helpful where there is a frequent need for interpreting services in one or more languages. Depending on the facts, sometimes it may be necessary and reasonable to provide on-site interpreters to provide accurate and meaningful communication with an LEP person.

Contracting for Interpreters. Contract interpreters may be a cost-effective option when there is no regular need for a particular language skill. In addition to commercial and other private [7] Many languages have "regionalisms," or differences in usage. For instance, a word that may be understood to mean something in Spanish for someone from Cuba may not be so understood by someone from Mexico. In addition, because there may be languages which do not have an appropriate direct interpretation of some terms, the interpreter or translator should be so aware and be able to provide the most appropriate interpretation. The interpreter should make the recipient aware of the issue and the interpreter and recipient can then work to develop a consistent and appropriate set of descriptions of these terms in that language that can be used again, when appropriate.

service involved, and the consequence to the LEP person if the information in question is not provided accurately or in a timely manner. For instance, a flyer announcing a soccer program run by a city agency at a former military base that was donated to that agency would not generally be considered vital, whereas written information about the application process for new affordable housing provided by the agency at that same base should likely be considered vital. Where appropriate, recipients are encouraged to create a plan for consistently determining, over time and across its various activities, what documents are "vital" to the meaningful access of the LEP populations they serve.

Categorizing a document as vital or non-vital is sometimes difficult, especially in the case of outreach materials like brochures or other information on rights and services. Awareness of rights or services is an important part of "meaningful access." Lack of awareness that a particular program, right, or service exists may effectively deny LEP individuals meaningful access. Thus, where a recipient is engaged in community outreach activities in furtherance of its activities, it should regularly assess the needs of the populations frequently encountered or affected by the program or activity to determine whether certain critical outreach materials should be translated. Community organizations may be helpful in determining what outreach materials may be most helpful to translate. In addition, the recipient should consider whether translations of outreach material may be made more effective when done in tandem with other outreach methods, including utilizing the ethnic media, schools, and religious and community organizations to spread a message.

Sometimes a document includes both vital and non-vital information. This may be the case when the document is very large. It may also be the case when the title and a phone number for obtaining more information on the contents of the document in frequently-encountered languages other than English is critical, but the document is sent out to the general public and cannot reasonably be translated into many languages and/or the language of the recipient is not known. Thus, vital information may include, for instance, the provision of information in appropriate languages other than English regarding where a LEP person might obtain an interpretation or translation of the document.

Into What Languages Should Documents be Translated? The languages spoken by the LEP individuals with whom the recipient has contact determine the languages into which vital documents should be translated. A distinction should be made, however, between languages that are frequently encountered by a recipient and less commonly-encountered languages. Many recipients serve communities in large cities or across the country. They regularly serve LEP persons who speak dozens and sometimes over 100 different languages. To translate all written materials into all of those languages is unrealistic, for although recent technological advances have made it easier for recipients to store and share translated documents, such an undertaking could incur substantial costs and require substantial resources. Nevertheless, well-substantiated claims of lack of resources to translate all vital documents into dozens of languages do not necessarily relieve the recipient of the obligation to translate those documents into at least several of the more frequently-encountered languages and to set benchmarks for continued translations into the remaining languages over time. As a result, the extent of the recipient's obligation to provide written translations of documents should be determined by the recipient on a case-by-case basis, looking at the totality of the circumstances in light of the four-factor analysis. Because translation is a one-time expense, consideration should be given to whether the upfront cost of translating a document (as opposed to oral interpretation) should be amortized over the likely lifespan of the document when applying this four-factor analysis.

Safe Harbor. Many recipients would like to ensure with greater certainty that they comply with their obligations to provide written translations in languages other than English. Paragraphs (a) and (b) below outline the circumstances that can provide a "safe harbor" for recipients regarding the requirements for translation of written materials. A "safe harbor" means that if a recipient provides written translations under these circumstances, such action will be considered strong evidence of compliance with the recipient's written-translation obligations.

The failure to provide written translations under the circumstances outlined in paragraphs (a) and (b) does not mean there is non-compliance. Rather, they provide a common starting point for recipients to consider whether and at what point the importance of the service, benefit, or activity involved; the nature of the information sought; and the number or proportion of LEP persons served call for written translations of commonly-used forms into frequently-encountered languages other than English. Thus, these paragraphs merely provide a guide for recipients that would like greater certainty of compliance than can be provided by a fact-intensive, four-factor analysis.

Example: Even if the safe harbors are not used, if written translation of a certain document(s) would be so burdensome as to defeat the legitimate objectives of its program, the translation of the written materials is not necessary. Other ways of providing meaningful access, such as effective oral interpretation of certain vital documents, might be acceptable under such circumstances.

When determining whether to provide translated documents or oral language services, recipients should consider the literacy rates of the LEP communities they serve. For example, certain languages (e.g., Hmong) until recently have been oral and not written, thus a high percentage of such LEP speakers may be unable to read translated documents or written instructions. Data analysis, utilizing information from a range of community groups and other sources, may provide a recipient with insight into whether translation of vital documents meets the goal of providing meaningful access, or whether it makes more sense to focus those resources on oral, and, where appropriate, graphics- or visually-based information exchange.

Safe Harbor. The following actions will be considered strong evidence of compliance with the recipient's written-translation obligations:

(a) DoD recipient provides written translations of vital documents for each eligible LEP language group that constitutes five percent or 1,000, whichever is less, of the population of persons eligible to be served or likely to be affected or encountered. Translation of other documents, if needed, can be provided orally; or

(b) If there are fewer than 50 persons in a language group that reaches the five percent trigger in (a), the recipient does not translate vital written materials but provides written notice in the primary language of the LEP language group of the right to receive competent oral interpretation of those written materials, free of cost.

These safe harbor provisions apply to the translation of written documents only. They do not affect the requirement to provide meaningful access to LEP individuals through competent oral interpreters where oral language services are needed and are reasonable. For example, even when there is only one LEP individual who is participating

(3) Training Staff

Staff should know their obligations to provide meaningful access to information and services for LEP persons. An effective LEP plan would likely include training to ensure that:

—Staff know about LEP policies and procedures.
—Staff having contact with the public (or those in a recipient's custody) are trained to work effectively with in-person and telephone interpreters.

Recipients may want to include this training as part of the orientation for new employees. It is important to ensure that all employees in public contact positions (or having contact with those in a recipient's custody) are properly trained. Recipients have flexibility in deciding the manner in which the training is provided. The more frequent the contact with LEP persons, the greater the need will be for in-depth training. Staff with little or no contact with LEP persons may only have to be aware of an LEP plan. However, management staff, even if they do not interact regularly with LEP persons, should be fully aware of and understand the plan so they can reinforce its importance and ensure its implementation by staff.

(4) Providing Notice to LEP Persons

Once an agency has decided, based on the four factors, that it will provide language services, it is important for the recipient to let LEP persons know that those services are available and that they are free of charge. Recipients should provide this notice in a language LEP persons will understand. Examples of notification that recipients should consider include:

Posting signs in intake areas and other entry points. When language assistance is needed to ensure meaningful access to information and services, it is important to provide notice in appropriate languages in intake areas or initial points of contact so that LEP persons can learn how to access those language services. This is particularly true in areas with high volumes of LEP persons seeking access to certain health, educational, safety, or economic services or activities run by DoD recipients. For instance, signs in intake offices could state that free language assistance is available. The signs should be translated into the most common languages encountered. They should explain how to get the language help.[9]

—Stating in outreach documents that language services are available from the agency. Announcements could be in, for instance, brochures, booklets, and in outreach and recruitment information. These statements should be translated into the most common languages and could be "tagged" onto the front of common documents.
—Working with community-based organizations and other stakeholders to inform LEP individuals of the recipients' services, including the availability of language assistance services.
—Using a telephone voice mail menu. The menu could be in the most common languages encountered. It should provide information about available language assistance services and how to get them.
—Including notices in local newspapers in languages other than English.
—Providing notices on non-English-language radio and television stations about the available language assistance services and how to get them.
—Presentations and/or notices at schools and religious organizations.

(5) Monitoring and Updating the LEP Plan

Recipients should, where appropriate, have a process for determining, on an ongoing basis, whether new documents, programs, services, and activities need to be made accessible for LEP individuals, and they may want to provide notice of any changes in services to the LEP public and to employees. In addition, recipients should consider whether changes in demographics, types of services, or other needs require annual reevaluation of their LEP plan. Less frequent reevaluation may be more appropriate where demographics, services, and needs are more static. One good way to evaluate the LEP plan is to seek feedback from the community.

In their reviews, recipients may want to consider assessing changes in:

—Current LEP populations in service area or population affected or encountered.
—Frequency of encounters with LEP language groups.
—Nature and importance of activities to LEP persons.
—Availability of resources, including technological advances and sources of additional resources, and the costs imposed.
—Whether existing assistance is meeting the needs of LEP persons.
—Whether staff knows and understands the LEP plan and how to implement it.
—Whether identified sources for assistance are still available and viable.

In addition to these five elements, effective plans set clear goals, management accountability, and opportunities for community input and planning throughout the process.

VIII. Voluntary Compliance Effort

The goal for Title VI and Title VI regulatory enforcement is to achieve voluntary compliance. The requirement to provide meaningful access to LEP persons is enforced and implemented by DoD through the procedures identified in the Title VI regulations. These procedures include complaint investigations, compliance reviews, efforts to secure voluntary compliance, and technical assistance.

The Title VI regulations provide that DoD will investigate whenever it receives a complaint, report, or other information that alleges or indicates possible noncompliance with Title VI or its regulations. If the investigation results in a finding of compliance, DoD will inform the recipient in writing of this determination, including the basis for the determination. DoD uses voluntary mediation to resolve most complaints. However, if a case is fully investigated and results in a finding of noncompliance, DoD must inform the recipient of the noncompliance through a Letter of Findings that sets out the areas of noncompliance and the steps that must be taken to correct the noncompliance. It must attempt to secure voluntary compliance through informal means. If the matter cannot be resolved informally, DoD must secure compliance through the termination of Federal assistance after DoD recipient has been given an opportunity for an administrative hearing and/or by referring the matter to a DOJ litigation section to seek injunctive relief or pursue other enforcement proceedings. DoD engages in voluntary compliance efforts and provides technical assistance to recipients at all stages of an investigation. During these efforts, DoD proposes reasonable timetables for achieving compliance and consults with and assists recipients in exploring cost-effective ways of coming into compliance. In determining a recipient's compliance with the Title VI regulations, DoD's primary concern is to ensure that the recipient's policies and procedures provide meaningful access for LEP persons to the recipient's programs and activities.

While all recipients must work toward building systems that will ensure access for LEP individuals, DoD for the item and the imposition of a fee were previously agreed upon in writing. The supplementary information further states that other types of overdraft products not pursuant to a written agreement typically are not covered consumer credit "because Regulation Z excludes from 'finance charge' any charge imposed by a creditor for credit extended to pay an item that overdraws an asset account and for which the borrower pays any fee or charge, unless the payment of such an item and the imposition of the fee or charge were previously agreed upon in writing."[7]

Thus, whether or not a particular overdraft product or service is "consumer credit" under the MLA regulation depends on whether the product or service meets each element of the definition of "consumer credit" and whether an exception applies.

2. Does credit that a creditor extends for the purpose of purchasing personal property, which secures the credit, fall within the exception to "consumer credit" under 32 CFR 232.3(f)(2)(iii) where the creditor simultaneously extends credit in an amount greater than the purchase price?

Answer: No. Section 232.3(f)(1) defines "consumer credit" as credit extended to a covered borrower primarily for personal, family, or household purposes that is subject to a finance charge or payable by written agreement in more than four installments. Section 232.3(f)(2) provides a list of exceptions to paragraph (f)(1), including an exception for any credit transaction that is expressly intended to finance the purchase of personal property when the credit is secured by the property being purchased. A hybrid purchase money and cash advance loan is not expressly intended to finance the purchase of personal property, because the loan provides additional financing that is unrelated to the purchase. To qualify for the purchase money exception from the definition of consumer credit, a loan must finance only the acquisition of personal property. Any credit transaction that provides purchase money secured financing of personal property along with additional "cash-out" financing is not eligible for the exception under § 232.3(f)(2)(iii) and must comply with the provisions set forth in the MLA regulation.

3. Under 32 CFR 232.4(b), are creditors permitted to waive fees or periodic charges at the end of a billing cycle or earlier for open-end credit, in order to prevent a borrower from being assessed a military annual percentage rate (MAPR) in excess of 36 percent during that billing cycle?

Answer: Yes. Section 232.4(b) requires that a creditor may not impose an MAPR greater than 36 percent in connection with an extension of consumer credit that is closed-end credit or in any billing cycle for open-end credit. In an open-end credit account, a covered borrower's use of a line of credit might, under certain circumstances, give rise to the imposition of a combination of fees and/or periodic charges that would cause the MAPR to exceed the limit in § 232.4(b). A creditor can comply with § 232.4(b) by designing a combination of periodic rates and fees that cannot possibly result in an MAPR greater than 36 percent. Nevertheless, nothing in 32 CFR part 232 prohibits a creditor from complying by waiving fees or finance charges, either in whole or in part, in order to reduce the MAPR to 36 percent or below in a given billing cycle. Thus, a creditor could alternatively comply by not imposing charges in excess of 36 percent MAPR that would otherwise be permitted under the credit agreement.

4. Are fees that a creditor is required to pay by law and passes through to a covered borrower required to be included in the calculation of the MAPR?

Answer: 32 CFR 232.4(c)(1) details the charges that must be included in the calculation of the MAPR. Among the charges that must be included are finance charges associated with the consumer credit. Finance charges are defined by § 232.3(n) to mean a "finance charge" in Regulation Z. If such fees are considered "finance charges" under Regulation Z, then such fees must be included in the calculation of the MAPR, unless they are bona fide fees charged to a credit card account that are excludable under § 232.4(d). However, if the fees are not "finance charges" under Regulation Z, then they may be excluded from the calculation of the MAPR, provided they do not qualify for any of the other categories of charges listed under § 232.4(c)(1).

5. For open-end credit, what constitutes a situation where the MAPR cannot be calculated because there is "no balance" in the billing cycle under 32 CFR 232.4(c)(2)(ii)(B)?

Answer: Section 232.4(c)(2)(ii)(B) specifically provides that for open-end credit, if the MAPR cannot be calculated in a billing cycle because there is "no balance" in the billing cycle, a creditor may not impose any fee or charge during that billing cycle, except for a participation fee that complies with the limitations set forth in § 232.4(c)(2)(ii)(B). Because the provision is tied to whether the MAPR can be calculated based on whether there is a balance in the billing cycle, creditors that impose fees or charges that are excluded from the calculation of the MAPR during a particular billing cycle are not subject to the limitations in § 232.4(c)(2)(ii)(B) for that billing cycle, as there would be no MAPR to calculate whether or not there was a balance during the billing cycle. For example, if a creditor charged a late fee for a late payment in accordance with its credit agreement with the covered borrower and in compliance with Regulation Z, the creditor may charge the fee, regardless of whether there is a balance in the billing cycle, because a late fee is not among the charges that are included in the calculation of the MAPR.

Furthermore, § 232.4(c)(2)(ii)(A) states that the MAPR shall be calculated following the rules set forth in 12 CFR 1026.14(c) and (d) of Regulation Z. Thus, the reference in § 232.4(c)(2)(ii)(B) to a situation in which the MAPR cannot be calculated in a billing cycle, because there is no balance, relates solely to the situation like the one described in 12 CFR 1026.14(c)(2), which is the only provision in 12 CFR 1026.14(c) and (d) that describes the inability to calculate an effective annual percentage rate when there is no balance in the billing cycle. 12 CFR 1026.14(c)(2) discusses how to compute an effective annual percentage rate when the charge imposed during the billing cycle is or includes a minimum, fixed, or other charge not due to the application of a periodic rate, other than a charge with respect to any specific transaction during the billing cycle. Under 12 CFR 1026.14(c)(2), if there is no balance to which the charge is applicable, an effective annual percentage rate cannot be determined under the section. Similarly, § 232.4(c)(2)(ii)(B) relates to when finance charge imposed during the billing cycle is or includes a minimum, fixed or other charge not due to the 10. Does the historic lookback provision of 32 CFR 232.5(b)(2)(B) prevent creditors from adopting a risk management plan that includes periodically screening credit portfolios to discover changes to covered borrower status?

Answer: No. Section 232.5 explains the methods available to creditors when determining a consumer's covered borrower status prior to or at the time the parties enter into a transaction or an account is created. The provision permits a creditor to use its own method to assess covered borrower status, and it provides a safe harbor to a creditor that employs either of two available methods: Using information obtained directly or indirectly from the DMDC database; or obtaining a consumer report from a nationwide consumer reporting agency (or a reseller of the same) containing a statement, code, or similar indicator describing that status. To benefit from the safe harbor provision, a creditor must determine a consumer's covered borrower status at or before the time of the transaction or the time an account is established and make a record of the determination. Section 232.5(b)(2)(B) prohibits a creditor from accessing the DMDC database after the time a consumer entered into a transaction or established an account for a specific purpose, namely "to ascertain whether a consumer had been a covered borrower as of the date of that transaction or as of the date that account was established." Therefore, the plain language of the regulation does not prohibit a creditor or assignee from accessing the DMDC database for other purposes, such as determining whether a previously covered borrower retains that status. However, as stated in § 232.7, other State or Federal laws providing greater protections to covered borrowers may apply to covered transactions under the MLA. Creditors should ensure compliance with any such laws that may apply to them and these transactions.

11. Does the particular internet address referenced in 32 CFR 232.5(b)(2) limit the availability of a safe harbor for a covered borrower check conducted through alternative methods of accessing the MLA database provided by the Department?

Answer: No. Under the safe harbor provided in § 232.5(b)(1), a creditor may conclusively determine whether credit is offered to a covered borrower by assessing the status of a consumer using information related to that consumer obtained from the database, maintained by the DMDC, for that purpose. Section 232.5(b)(2) references a uniform resource locator (URL), more commonly known as an Internet address, as a convenience to assist the public in locating the DMDC MLA database. However, that particular URL address itself does not serve as a restriction on the method through which the DMDC MLA database is accessed. For technological reasons, the Department may from time to time revise the DMDC MLA URL through providing notice on the DMDC MLA Web page. Therefore, a creditor who makes a determination regarding the status of a consumer by accessing the database maintained by the DMDC through a URL provided by the DMDC that is different from the one specifically referenced in § 232.5(b)(2) may still take advantage of the safe harbor in § 232.5(b)(1), so long as the creditor timely creates and thereafter maintains a record of the information so obtained as provided in § 232.5(b)(3).

Furthermore, the Department is currently developing a pilot project in collaboration with several financial service providers that anticipate a large volume of covered borrower checks. In this pilot project, the Department is experimenting with a direct connection that may improve access to the DMDC database for the financial services industry. This direct connection pilot project accesses the same DMDC database available through an internet query. A creditor may verify the status of a consumer by using the database maintained by the Department for that purpose, even though the creditor uses a method of accessing that database provided by the Department other than the particular URL listed in § 232.5(b)(2). Thus, a creditor who makes a determination regarding the status of a consumer under § 232.5(b)(2) by participating in the Department's direct connection pilot project (or a similar form of access should it be provided by the Department at a future date) is deemed conclusive with respect to that transaction or account involving consumer credit between the creditor and that consumer, so long as that creditor timely creates and thereafter maintains a record of the information so obtained as provided in § 232.5(b)(3).

12. How may a creditor orally provide the payment obligation disclosure required under 32 CFR 232.6(a)(3) to meet the requirements of 32 CFR 232.6(d)(2)?

Answer: Section 232.6(a)(3) requires a creditor to provide to a covered borrower, before or at the time the borrower becomes obligated on the transaction or establishes an account for the consumer credit, a clear description of the payment obligation of the covered borrower, as applicable. A payment schedule (in the case of closed-end credit) or an account-opening disclosure (in the case of open-end credit) provided pursuant to the requirement to provide Regulation Z disclosures satisfies this obligation. Therefore, a creditor may orally provide the information in a payment schedule or an account-opening disclosure to a covered borrower. However, an oral recitation of the payment schedule or the account-opening disclosure is not the only way a creditor may comply with § 232.6(a)(3). A creditor may also orally provide a clear description of the payment obligation of the covered borrower by providing a general description of how the payment obligation is calculated or a description of what the borrower's payment obligation would be based on an estimate of the amount the borrower may borrow. For example, a creditor could generally describe how minimum payments are calculated on open-end credit plans issued by the creditor and then refer the covered borrower to the written materials the borrower will receive in connection with opening the plan. Alternatively, a creditor could choose to generally describe borrowers' obligations to make a monthly, bi-monthly, or weekly payment as the case may be under the borrowers' agreements.

Neither the MLA nor the MLA regulation specifies particular content or format for the requirement of a clear, oral description of the payment obligation. Also, nothing in the MLA or the MLA regulation requires that the clear description of the payment obligation provided in writing must be the same as the oral disclosure, provided that both disclosures are clear and accurate. As explained in the supplementary information to the Department's July 2015 Final Rule, the Department's approach has been to interpret the MLA's oral disclosure requirement in a manner that provides creditors "straightforward mechanisms" that afford "latitude to develop the same (or consistent) systems to orally provide the required disclosures—regardless of the particular context . . ."[9] The requirement of a clear, oral payment obligation disclosure has sufficient breadth that creditors may choose a variety of acceptable oral disclosure compliance strategies. Thus, under the Department's approach, a generic oral description of the payment obligation may be provided, even though the disclosure is the same for borrowers credit, unless otherwise prohibited by law. While § 232.8(g) prohibits a creditor from requiring as a condition for the extension of consumer credit that the covered borrower establish an allotment to repay an obligation, the regulation does not apply this restriction to a "military welfare society" or a "service relief society" as defined in 37 U.S.C. 1007(h)(4).

17. Does the limitation in § 232.8(e) on a creditor using a check or other method of access to a deposit, savings, or other financial account maintained by the covered borrower prohibit the borrower from granting a security interest to a creditor in the covered borrower's checking, savings or other financial account?

Answer: No. The prohibition in § 232.8(e) does not prohibit covered borrowers from granting a security interest to a creditor in the covered borrower's checking, savings, or other financial account, provided that it is not otherwise prohibited by applicable law and the creditor complies with the MLA regulation including the limitation on the MAPR to 36 percent. As discussed in Question and Answer #16 of these Interpretations, § 232.8(e) prohibits a creditor from using the borrower's account information to create a remotely created check or remotely created payment order in order to collect payments on consumer credit from a covered borrower or using a post-dated check provided at or around the time credit is extended.

Section 232.8(e)(3) further clarifies that covered borrowers may convey security interests in checking, savings, or other financial accounts by describing a permissible security interest granted by covered borrowers. Thus, for example, a covered borrower may grant a security interest in funds deposited in a checking, savings, or other financial account after the extension of credit in an account established in connection with the consumer credit transaction.

18. Does the limitation in § 232.8(e) on a creditor using a check or other method of access to a deposit, savings, or other financial account maintained by the covered borrower prohibit a creditor from exercising a statutory right to take a security interest in funds deposited within a covered borrower's account?

Answer: No. Under certain circumstances federal or state statutes may grant creditors statutory liens on funds deposited within covered borrowers' asset accounts. For example, under 12 U.S.C. 1757(11) federal credit unions may "enforce a lien upon the shares and dividends of any member, to the extent of any loan made to him and any dues or charges payable by him." As discussed in Question and Answer #16 of these Interpretations, § 232.8(e) serves to prohibit a creditor from using the borrower's account information to create a remotely created check or remotely created payment order in order to collect payments on consumer credit from a covered borrower or using a post-dated check provided at or around the time credit is extended. Section 232.8(e)(3) describes a permissible activity under § 232.8(e). However, the fact that § 232.8(e)(3) specifies a particular time when a creditor may take a security interest in funds deposited in an account does not change the general effect of the prohibition in § 232.8(e). Therefore, § 232.8(e) does not impede a creditor from exercising a statutory right to take a security interest in funds deposited in an account at any time, provided that the security interest is not otherwise prohibited by applicable law and the creditor complies with the MLA regulation, including the limitation on the MAPR to 36 percent.

19. Under 32 CFR 232.3(f)(2)(ii) and 232.8(f) what methods of transportation are included within the definition of a "vehicle"?

Answer: For purposes of the MLA, the term "vehicle" means any self-propelled vehicle primarily used for personal, family, or household purposes for on-road transportation. The term does not include motor homes, recreational vehicles (RVs), golf carts, or motor scooters.

III. Regulatory Impact

Executive Order 12866, "Regulatory Planning and Review" and Executive Order 13563, "Improving Regulation and Regulatory Review"

Executive Orders 13563 and 12866 direct agencies to assess all costs and benefits of available regulatory alternatives and, if regulation is necessary, to select regulatory approaches that maximize net benefits (including potential economic, environmental, public health and safety effects, distributive impacts, and equity). Executive Order 13563 emphasizes the importance of quantifying both costs and benefits, reducing costs, harmonizing rules, and promoting flexibility. It has been determined that this is not a significant rule. This interpretive rule will not have an annual effect of $100 million or more on the economy, or adversely affect productivity, competition, jobs, the environment, public health or safety, or State or local governments. This rulemaking will not interfere with an action taken or planned by another agency, or raise new legal or policy issues. Finally, this rulemaking will not alter the budgetary impacts of entitlements, grants, user fees, or loan programs or the rights and obligations of recipients of such programs. Accordingly, this rulemaking is not subject to Office of Management and Budget (OMB) review under Executive Order 12866.

2 U.S.C. Ch. 25, "Unfunded Mandates Reform Act"

Section 202 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995 (UMRA) (2 U.S.C. 1532) requires agencies to assess anticipated costs and benefits before issuing any rule whose mandates require spending in any 1 year of $100 million in 1995 dollars, updated annually for inflation. In 2014, that threshold is approximately $141 million. This rule will not mandate any requirements for State, local, or tribal governments, nor will it affect private sector costs.

Public Law 96–354, "Regulatory Flexibility Act" (5 U.S.C. Ch. 6)

The Department of Defense certifies that this rule is not subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601) because it would not, if promulgated, have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Therefore, the Regulatory Flexibility Act, as amended, does not require us to prepare a regulatory flexibility analysis.

Public Law 96–511, "Paperwork Reduction Act" (44 U.S.C. Chapter 35)

This rule does not impose reporting and record keeping requirements under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995.

Executive Order 13132, "Federalism"

This rule was analyzed in accordance with the principles and criteria contained in Executive Order 13132 ("Federalism"). It has been determined that it does not have sufficient Federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a Federalism summary impact statement. This rule has no substantial effect on the States, or on the current Federal-State relationship, or on the current distribution of power and responsibilities among the various local officials. Nothing in this rule preempts any State law or regulation. Therefore, Department did not consult with State and local officials because it was not necessary.

part 232. For ease of reference, the following terms are used throughout this document: MLA refers to the Military Lending Act (codified at 10 U.S.C. 987); MAPR refers to the military annual percentage rate, as defined in 32 CFR 232.3(p).

In order to provide further guidance to industry and the public on the Department's view of its existing regulation, the Department amends its guidance on three questions and provides one additional question and answer. The numbering of this document follows the numbering of the questions and answers provided in the August 26, 2016 Interpretive Rule.

2. Does credit that a creditor extends for the purpose of purchasing a motor vehicle or personal property, which secures the credit, fall within the exception to "consumer credit" under 32 CFR 232.3(f)(2)(ii) or (iii) where the creditor simultaneously extends credit in an amount greater than the purchase price of the motor vehicle or personal property?

Answer: The answer will depend on what the credit beyond the purchase price of the motor vehicle or personal property is used to finance. Generally, financing costs related to the object securing the credit will not disqualify the transaction from the exceptions, but financing credit-related costs will disqualify the transaction from the exceptions.

Section 232.3(f)(1) defines "consumer credit" as credit offered or extended to a covered borrower primarily for personal, family, or household purposes that is subject to a finance charge or payable by written agreement in more than four installments. Section 232.3(f)(2) provides a list of exceptions to paragraph (f)(1), including an exception for any credit transaction that is expressly intended to finance the purchase of a motor vehicle when the credit is secured by the vehicle being purchased and an exception for any credit transaction that is expressly intended to finance the purchase of personal property when the credit is secured by the property being purchased.

A credit transaction that finances the object itself, as well as any costs expressly related to that object, is covered by the exceptions in § 232.3(f)(2)(ii) and (iii), provided it does not also finance any credit-related product or service. For example, a credit transaction that finances the purchase of a motor vehicle (and is secured by that vehicle), and also finances optional leather seats within that vehicle and an extended warranty for service of that vehicle is eligible for the exception under § 232.3(f)(2)(ii). Moreover, if a covered borrower trades in a motor vehicle with negative equity as part of the purchase of another motor vehicle, and the credit transaction to purchase the second vehicle includes financing to repay the credit on the trade-in vehicle, the entire credit transaction is eligible for the exception under § 232.3(f)(2)(ii) because the trade-in of the first motor vehicle is expressly related to the purchase of the second motor vehicle. Similarly, a credit transaction that finances the purchase of an appliance (and is secured by that appliance), and also finances the delivery and installation of that appliance, is eligible for the exception under § 232.3(f)(2)(iii).

In contrast, a credit transaction that also finances a credit-related product or service rather than a product or service expressly related to the motor vehicle or personal property is not eligible for the exceptions under § 232.3(f)(2)(ii) and (iii). For example, a credit transaction that includes financing for Guaranteed Auto Protection insurance or a credit insurance premium would not qualify for the exception under § 232.3(f)(2)(ii) or (iii). Similarly, a hybrid purchase money and cash advance credit transaction is not expressly intended to finance the purchase of a motor vehicle or personal property because the credit transaction provides additional financing that is unrelated to the purchase. Therefore, any credit transaction that provides purchase money secured financing of a motor vehicle or personal property along with additional "cashout" financing is not eligible for the exceptions under § 232.3(f)(2)(ii) and (iii) and must comply with the provisions set forth in the MLA regulation.

17. Does the limitation in § 232.8(e) on a creditor using a check or other method of access to a deposit, savings, or other financial account maintained by the covered borrower prohibit the borrower from granting a security interest to a creditor in the covered borrower's checking, savings or other financial account?

Answer: No. The prohibition in § 232.8(e) does not prohibit covered borrowers from granting a security interest to a creditor in the covered borrower's checking, savings, or other financial account, provided that it is not otherwise prohibited by other applicable law and the creditor complies with all other provisions of the MLA regulation, including the limitation on the MAPR to 36 percent. As discussed in Question and Answer #16 of these Interpretations, § 232.8(e) prohibits a creditor from using the borrower's account information to create a remotely created check or remotely created payment order in order to collect payments on consumer credit from a covered borrower or using a post-dated check provided at or around the time credit is extended.

Section 232.8(e)(3) further clarifies that covered borrowers may convey security interests in checking, savings, or other financial accounts by describing a permissible security interest granted by covered borrowers. Borrowers may convey security interests for all types of consumer credit covered by the MLA regulation.

Creditors should also note, however, that 32 CFR 232.7(a) provides that the MLA does not preempt any State or Federal law, rule or regulation to the extent that such law, rule or regulation provides greater protection to covered borrowers than the protections provided by the MLA. For example, although the MLA regulation does not prohibit borrowers from conveying security interests in all types of consumer credit covered by the regulation, including credit card accounts, such accounts may also be subject to other laws, rules and regulations governing offsets and security interests. See, e.g., 12 CFR 1026.12(d).

18. Does the limitation in § 232.8(e) on a creditor using a check or other method of access to a deposit, savings, or other financial account maintained by the covered borrower prohibit a creditor from exercising a statutory right, or a right arising out of a security interest a borrower grants to a creditor, to take a security interest in funds deposited within a covered borrower's account at any time?

Answer: No. In addition to the security interests granted by borrowers to creditors, as discussed in Question and Answer #17 of these Interpretations, above, under certain circumstances Federal or State statutes may grant creditors statutory liens on funds deposited within covered borrowers' asset accounts. Section 232.8(e) does not prohibit a creditor from exercising rights to take a security interest in funds deposited into a covered borrower's account at any time, including enforcing statutory liens, provided that it is not otherwise prohibited by other applicable law and the creditor complies with all other provisions of the MLA regulation, including the limitation on the MAPR to 36 percent. For example, under 12 U.S.C. 1757(11) Federal credit unions may "enforce a lien upon the shares and dividends of any member, to the extent of any loan made to him and any dues or charges payable by him."

consumers associated with such ancillary credit-related products.[7]

Based on available data, the Department estimates the annual total market revenue for these products at $6,116.5 and $3,761.7 million, respectively, or a total of $9,878.1 million. The Department estimates that the covered borrower market for these products is .95 percent of the total market for these products, as covered borrower households represent .95 percent of total U.S. households, which implies a total possible market for covered borrowers of approximately $93.8 million. Of these covered borrowers, the Department estimates that only a very small portion of these consumers could include the Service members and their families covered by the MLA. As an example, if the typical consumer of such a product is an enlisted Service member under 25, does not have a college degree, and owns a car, the possible market value relevant to the MLA and this interpretive rule might be more like $21.7 million.[8] Within this further market segment, an undetermined percentage of these products actually offer interest rates greater than 36 percent and would actually be purchased by this group, which would represent the share of products that fall under the MLA requirement. Generally, in this and other possible scenarios across age groups and other demographic characteristics, the Department anticipates the universe of products that exceed 36 percent interest in this category is very small and possibly negligible, especially considering the time that has passed since the final rule was issued. This number is anticipated to be even more likely to be negligible when considering the number of covered borrowers who would choose to consume this product particularly in light of the existing MLA requirement.

Safety Zone; Delaware River, Pipeline Removal, Marcus Hook, PA

AGENCY: Coast Guard, DHS.

ACTION: Interim rule and request for comments.

SUMMARY: This interim rule modifies and extends the effective period of the existing temporary safety zone encompassing all navigable waters within a 250-yard radius of Commerce Construction vessels and machinery conducting diving and pipeline removal operations in the Delaware River, in the vicinity of Anchorage 7, near Marcus Hook, PA. The safety zone is needed to protect personnel, vessels, and the marine environment from potential hazards created by diving and pipeline removal operations. Entry of vessels or persons into this zone is prohibited unless specifically authorized by the Captain of the Port Delaware Bay. We invite your comments on this rulemaking.

DATES: This rule is effective without actual notice from December 14, 2017. For the purposes of enforcement, actual notice will be used from December 9, 2017, through December 14, 2017. Comments and related material must be received by the Coast Guard on or before January 16, 2018.

[8] Approximately 82 percent of Service members are enlisted; 91 percent do not have college degrees; 44 percent are under 25 years of age; and 67 percent of those under 25 own or lease at least one vehicle. The intersection of these portions creates a factor of approximately .22, which can be applied to the total market value of approximately $93.8 million, resulting in a possible market segment of approximately $21.7 million. This segment would then require further apportionment to reflect the share of the products therein that offer interest rates above the 36 percent cap. Dear Mr. Chairman:

This responds to your letter to the Attorney General dated December 8, 2017, requesting a list of guidance documents issued by components of the Department of Justice (Department) since January 1, 2008. We are sending identical responses to the other Members who joined your letter.

Gathering information to respond to this request has involved a substantial effort by the component members of the Department's Regulatory Reform Task Force (Task Force). Enclosed is a disc with an Excel multi-sheet workbook containing the respective lists of guidance documents from most of those components. However, certain components are still in the process of compiling and finalizing their list of guidance documents issued since 2008. We hope to supplement this response in the near future.

The Task Force component members have been directed to review these guidance documents and identify candidates for repeal, modification, or rescission in connection with the Task Force's work, which is ongoing.

We hope this information is helpful. Please do not hesitate to contact this office if we may provide additional assistance regarding this or any other matter.

Sincerely,

Assistant Secretary for Congressional and Intergovernmental Affairs
Washington, D.C. 20210

FEB 0 1 2018

The Honorable Trey Gowdy
Chairman
Committee on Oversight and Government Reform
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, D.C. 20515

Dear Chairman Gowdy,

Thank you for your December 8, 2017 letter to Secretary of Labor R. Alexander Acosta requesting a list of all guidance documents issued by the Department since January 1, 2008. Your letter was forwarded to the Office of Congressional and Intergovernmental Affairs for response.

As you know, the President's Executive Orders (E.O.) 13771 and 13777 focus on reducing regulatory burdens that eliminate jobs, or inhibit job creation; are outdated, unnecessary, or ineffective; impose costs that exceed benefits; create a serious inconsistency or otherwise interfere with regulatory reform initiatives and polices; are not publicly available or that are insufficiently transparent to meet the standard for reproducibility; or derive from or implement Executive Orders or other Presidential directives that have been subsequently rescinded or substantially modified.

Specifically, Sec. 3 of E.O. 13771 provides that the Regulatory Reform Task Forces "shall evaluate existing regulations (as defined in section 4 of Executive Order 13771) and make recommendations to the agency head regarding their repeal, replacement, or modification, consistent with applicable law." Sec. 4 of E.O. 13771, with a few exceptions for categories such as national security, defines "regulation" or "rule" as "an agency statement of general or particular applicability and future effect designed to implement, interpret, or prescribe law or policy or to describe the procedure or practice requirements of an agency." This definition includes many guidance documents. Per the mandates of these Executive Orders, the Department through the Regulatory Reform Task Force is evaluating its regulations and guidance. That evaluation is ongoing.

The Department is committed to fulfilling the committee's request in a timely manner and will continue to update members of your staff regarding the Department's progress. While additional work remains, we have completed a comprehensive review of guidance material for Calendar Years 2017 and 2016 which are enclosed for review. Please note, the Veterans Employment and Training Service (VETS) was able to provide all of the information requested by the committee through 2008. The enclosed documents include the entirety of relevant material from VETS.

If you have any questions regarding the enclosed information please have your staff contact the Office of Congressional and Intergovernmental Affairs at [redacted].

Sincerely,

Katherine B. McGuire

January 16, 2018

Honorable Jim Jordan
Chairman, Subcommittee on Healthcare,
Benefits, and Administrative Rules
Committee on Oversight
and Government Reform
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Representative Jordan:

Thank you for your December 8, 2017, letter to Secretary DeVos regarding guidance issued by the U.S. Department of Education (Department) since January 1, 2008. Your letter was forwarded to me, and I am pleased to respond on the Secretary's behalf. An identical response has been sent to each of your cosigners.

In accordance with our discussions with your staff, we are providing the information you requested for two Department offices – the Office of the Chief Financial Officer (OCFO) and the Office of Management's Office of the Chief Privacy Officer (OM-OCPO). The Department will provide information for the remaining offices on a rolling basis to be completed no later than February 15, 2018.

We have enclosed spreadsheets responding to Questions 1 through 6b and 7 for OCFO and OM-OCPO. With respect to question 6c, none of the listed guidance was submitted to GAO or Congress. With respect to Question 6d, the Department's Regulatory Reform Task Force has overseen and is continuing to oversee the review by Department offices of their guidance in accordance with Executive Order 13777. The Department's most recent report on this review can be found at https://www2.ed.gov/documents/press-releases/regulatory-reform-task-force-progress-report-2.pdf.

Should you have any questions regarding this submission, please contact Peter Oppenheim, Assistant Secretary for Legislation and Congressional Affairs, at [redacted].

Sincerely,

Robert Eitel

Robert S. Eitel
Senior Counselor to the Secretary and

Honorable Mark Meadows
Chairman
Subcommittee on Government Operations

and Government Reform
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Representative Meadows:

Thank you for your December 8, 2017, letter to Secretary DeVos regarding guidance issued by the U.S. Department of Education (Department) since January 1, 2008. Your letter was forwarded to me, and I am pleased to respond on the Secretary's behalf. An identical response has been sent to each of your cosigners.

In accordance with our discussions with your staff, we are providing the information you requested for two Department offices – the Office of the Chief Financial Officer (OCFO) and the Office of Management's Office of the Chief Privacy Officer (OM-OCPO). The Department will provide information for the remaining offices on a rolling basis to be completed no later than February 15, 2018.

We have enclosed spreadsheets responding to Questions 1 through 6b and 7 for OCFO and OM-OCPO. With respect to question 6c, none of the listed guidance was submitted to GAO or Congress. With respect to Question 6d, the Department's Regulatory Reform Task Force has overseen and is continuing to oversee the review by Department offices of their guidance in accordance with Executive Order 13777. The Department's most recent report on this review can be found at https://www2.ed.gov/documents/press-releases/regulatory-reform-task-force-progress-report-2.pdf.

Should you have any questions regarding this submission, please contact Peter Oppenheim, Assistant Secretary for Legislation and Congressional Affairs, at [redacted].

Sincerely,

Robert Eitel

Robert S. Eitel

Washington, DC 20515

Dear Representative Palmer:

Thank you for your December 8, 2017, letter to Secretary DeVos regarding guidance issued by the U.S. Department of Education (Department) since January 1, 2008. Your letter was forwarded to me, and I am pleased to respond on the Secretary's behalf. An identical response has been sent to each of your cosigners.

In accordance with our discussions with your staff, we are providing the information you requested for two Department offices – the Office of the Chief Financial Officer (OCFO) and the Office of Management's Office of the Chief Privacy Officer (OM-OCPO). The Department will provide information for the remaining offices on a rolling basis to be completed no later than February 15, 2018.

We have enclosed spreadsheets responding to Questions 1 through 6b and 7 for OCFO and OM-OCPO. With respect to question 6c, none of the listed guidance was submitted to GAO or Congress. With respect to Question 6d, the Department's Regulatory Reform Task Force has overseen and is continuing to oversee the review by Department offices of their guidance in accordance with Executive Order 13777. The Department's most recent report on this review can be found at https://www2.ed.gov/documents/press-releases/regulatory-reform-task-force-progress-report-2.pdf.

Should you have any questions regarding this submission, please contact Peter Oppenheim, Assistant Secretary for Legislation and Congressional Affairs, at [redacted].

Sincerely,

Robert Eitel

| Incentive Compensation IC-Q1 | Q&A | The first question delineated the type of activities that are subject to the ban on incentive compensation. Two types of activities are subject to the ban: securing enrollment (recruitment) and securing financial aid. No other activities are subject to the ban. The answer goes on to discuss what is considered to be securing enrollment or securing financial aid, as well as listing exempt activities. | 3/17/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/compensation.html | |

| Incentive Compensation IC-Q6 | Q&A | The sixth question expands upon the Department's definition of profit sharing, which was deemed as unallowable in the first question of this FAQ. The Department notes that it specifically means plans that for-profit corporations use to compensate employees and was not intended as revenue generated at nonprofit corporations. | 3/17/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/compensation.html | |

| Retaking Coursework RC-Q1 | Q&A | Clarifies how many times can a student receive aid to retake that course. Repetition of the program in a student's enrollment status for a term is allowed as long as the student has never passed the course. | 8/26/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/course.html | |

| Return of Title IV Funds R2T4-Q1 | Q&A | The first general question notes that the changes made to 668.22 (R2T4) apply to students from payment periods of enrollment that begin on or after July 1, 2011. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q1 | Q&A | The first module question explains that a program where all courses span the entire length of the payment period (PP) or period of enrollment (PE), it is considered not a module program, but if some or all of the courses do not span the entire length of the PP or PE it is considered to be a module for the purposes of R2T4. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q2 | Q&A | The second module question defines when would be considered "at the time that would have been a withdrawal" and does a student have to provide written confirmation that they will be returning to a later module to not be considered a withdrawal or can they be requested at a later time. The Department stated that at the time that would have been a withdrawal means close to the date the student actually ceased attendance and before the time the institution was required to conduct and R2T4. The institution must begin the R2T4 process immediately once a student has withdrawn and may not delay the process. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q3 | Q&A | The third module question confirms that a student confirming future attendance would constitute written confirmation that the student will attend a module later in the same PP or PE. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q4 | Q&A | The fourth module question confirms that an institution may not wait to perform an R2T4 to see if a student who has withdrawn will return for attendance later in the PP or PE. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q5 | Q&A | For a student in a non-term or nonstandard program that is considered to have withdrawn and will not begin their next course for more than 45 calendar days, the student's withdrawal date is considered the last date of attendance. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q6 | Q&A | An institution may have a policy that uses a shorter time frame from the 45 days from a period of withdrawal to the start of their next module starting. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q7 | Q&A | If a student withdraws from a term-based program offered in modules- triggering an R2T4 and returns during the same PP or PE, an institution must restore the original title IV, HEA program funds awarded to them. However, if they did not attend an entire module while they were away, the institution must adjust the award to take into account that the student never began the courses in that module. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q8 | Q&A | A student who ceases attendance between modules is considered a withdrawal for R2T4. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |

|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q9 | Q&A | If a student withdraws during the first module and drops all future modules, the total number of calendar days in the PP or PE is the total number of calendar days in the period the student was scheduled to complete prior to ceasing attendance. Adjustments made to this after the student ceases attendance have no bearing on the R2T4. However, if future modules are dropped prior to the student stopping attendance, the total calendar days would only include the first module. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q10 | Q&A | Days between modules are not included in the total number of calendar days for an R2T4 calculation and are excluded from the numerator and denominator. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q11 | Q&A | For institutions not required to take attendance with programs offered in modules, the midpoint is determined as the 50 percent point of the total number of calendar days in the PP or PE. An institution would mathematically multiply the length in weeks of each module scheduled to be complete by 7 days and then divide by 2. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q12 | Q&A | This question clarifies that an institution does not have to delay the first disbursement of Direct Loan funds until a student has begun attendance in enough hours to qualify as a half-time student. The reference in the preamble was clarified to be about a post-withdrawal disbursement. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q13 | Q&A | Continuing on from the previous question, this question clarifies the ability of an institution to make a second disbursement of Pell Grant funds, which is clarified as stating that the preamble was incorrect and an institution would not be prohibited from making a second disbursement of Pell Grant funds if the R2T4 resulted in a post-withdrawal disbursement. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q14 | Q&A | For a student who drops classes in remaining modules when the student is not attending any classes, the days in those modules are included in the total number of calendar days for the PP or PE. | 2/2/2012 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q15 | Q&A | The days from dropped classes that are dropped on the same day the student withdraws have no bearing on the R2T4. The R2T4 must include those days in the R2T4. | 2/2/2012 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q16 | Q&A | Students who withdraw from title IV eligible courses and are only taking non-title IV eligible courses, they are considered a withdrawal for the purposes of R2T4, regardless of whether those courses were modules. | 5/7/2012 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |

| Return of Title IV Funds MOD-Q17 | Q&A | The total number of calendar days in the PP or PE must reflect the actual days the student would have to attend to successfully complete all the hours the student was originally scheduled to complete in the period. If additional courses must be added for successful completion of hours in the PP/PE and those could have been taken concurrently, then the period would be extended by the days needed to take the courses concurrently. | 9/14/2012 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
| Return of Title IV Funds TA-Q1 | Q&A | For institutions that are required to take attendance, the institution is required to still adhere to the 14 day of determination that a student has withdrawn within 14 days of not taking attendance. If the student has a future module scheduled, that date would be 14 days of when that module begins if the student does not attend. | 7/20/2011 | OPE | No | | | | | https://www2.ed.gov/policy/highered/reg/hearulemaking/2009/return.html | |
